

Padding in Virginia Beach schools

Does a smack on the bottom clear the brain?

By JOAN COATES
SUN Staff Writer

Some people adhere to the old adage, "spare the rod and spoil the child," but not the Virginia Beach School System.

In-school padding of errant children, or corporal punishment, is allowed by Virginia law and according to Policy #5194.3 of the Virginia Beach School Board Policy, corporal punishment can only be used by principals and their assistants.

Corporal punishment was recently reinforced in Virginia by a federal court of appeals ruling which said that as long as the punishment is justified and not excessive, corporal punishment violates no constitutional rights.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned a $200 damage suit awarded to a 10-year-old student at Henry Clay Elementary School in Hanover County.

Students at Plaza Jr. High have a choice between detention and padding.

The student alleged the padding done by principal Melvin B. Hall Jr. had raised welts on his buttocks. The court decided the student's rights had not been abridged, and that Hall had acted "well within Virginia state law."

The majority of Virginia Beach principals surveyed by the Sun do employ padding as a disciplinary action. Frequency of padding ranges from two or three times a year to about once a week. Several principals could not recall padding a student within several years.

In most instances the rate of padding increases sharply from the elementary school level to junior high, and then drops again at the high school level.

As a general rule Virginia Beach administrators don't paddle, according to John Holgate, officer of Public Information for the Virginia Beach School Board. They do use padding as a solution, he said, but only in extreme cases.

Principals emphasized that they use padding only "as a last resort." After trying every possible means with students who are repeated offenders, according to Mrs. Lou Royal, principal of Woodstock Elementary School, "We have to have some form authority. Students have to know the limits," she said.

Mrs. Royal, who strongly believes in behavior modification, feels certain student behavior would change with padding. She said she prefers a more positive approach to discipline, but when confronted with a student who uses verbal abuse or endangers himself or others, she spansks.

A student who is a repeated offender has usually "had it" after three trips to the office, according to Gerry Flanagan, principal of Thalia Elementary. "It's not a big deal," he said. Flanagan said 20 teachers don't spank.

At Bayside Junior High School, long term offenses such as unauthorized smoking or disrespectfulness might result in padding, said Charles A. Perkinson, principal. Perkinson said he tries to give students an alternative to padding, such as suspension or detention.

The student is asked to bend over and the principal gives the buttocks two or three whacks.

Students at Plaza Junior High also have a choice between detention and padding. "Suspension is a major offense," according to William Gilliam, principal at Plaza, "whereas padding, for my smoking, is a minor offense."

Mr. Gilliam sees padding as effective with the younger junior high students. "It's a good way to deal with them," he said. "They understand it well." But with ninth graders, he feels it wouldn't be as effective. "It would probably build up resentment," Gilliam said.

Of principals that paddle, the majority use wooden paddles. Some use the "Board of Instruction" variety found in stores. Some have been made by parents. Letcher Hill, principal at Princess Anne High School remembers his as a "small, thin, six inch ruler or yardstick." One rumor had a certain principal with a row of paddles of different sizes in order to fit all size children.

School Board policy states that a witness must be present during the padding. In the case of a female student, a female staff member or administrator must be present.

Cathy Drewra, 10, a student at Kempsville Elementary: "No, I don't think kids should be spanked. My brother was and he got worse."

Mark Taylor, 7, a student at Winsor Oaks Elementary: "I knew a kid that had stolen something. They spanked him. It didn't help him."

John Harvey, 11, a student at Winsor Oaks Elementary: "(At Winsor Oaks) you get a choice between suspension and being whipped. Only my daddy should be able to do that."

There were a lot of ties in last week's guessing on the Chesapeake Post (Virginia Beach Sun) Football Contest.

Dividing the first prize of $25 were John Beascham, 220 Woodbridge Dr., Chesapeake and Mary England of 4423 Hodgins in the Beach. Both guessed the winners of two games incorrectly and both guessed the outcome of the tie breaker the same. Both will receive $12.50.

Taking the second place $15 prize all by herself was Anna Evanovsky, 4120 Franklin St., Chesapeake.

Tying for third place were Charles Beasley, 1201 Algona Dr., Chesapeake and Gerald Stevens, 320 Bernice Pl., Virginia Beach.

Another Football Contest appears in this edition of the newspaper. Why not enter today.

Children's fishing tourney

On Saturday, October 1, the Virginia Beach Anglers Club and the City of Virginia Beach will sponsor a Children's Pier Fishing Tournament. The tournament will be held from 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. at the Lynnhaven Inlet and Virginia Beach Fishing Piers.

Children up to and including 15 years of age are eligible. Entry into the tournament is free and there is a special reduced admission to the piers.

Registration may be taken care of at either pier on Tournament Day. Trophies will be given for the largest of each eligible species caught.

Free Bee ad brings Beth a pony

Beth Miller

By JOAN COATES
SUN Staff Writer

The SUN Free-Bee Ads really do get results. Ask Beth Miller.

Beth, 6, of Old Mill Road, Deep Creek, has been wanting a horse for as long as her parents can remember. When she was three years old, she hid in a neighbor's stable and began to teach herself to ride.

After her father told Beth that he couldn't afford to buy her a horse for two or three more years, Beth, turned to the SUN Free-Bees. She advertised a free home for a pony and sure enough she got a response.

James Gardner, who delivers for Frilio-Lay in the Great Bridge section, saw Beth's picture and found her "so appealing" that he gave her a call. Gardner boards his three horses and pony, Ed, at Festress but how Ed is too big for his three children. "She came over and seemed so enthused that I told her I'd bring him on over," Gardner said.

It took Ed a while to get used to his new home. "He started bucking," said Miller, "so I got the job of breaking him." But Beth and Ed are getting along great now. She's learning to ride and he's learning to take direction from a new mistress.

When Beth first found out she was getting Ed, she told her neighbor that she too would soon have a horse. "He couldn't believe I was getting a horse for free," she said. "He does now."

Padding errant school children is legal by law and according to a Sun survey, is a fairly common form of discipline in Virginia Beach Schools.

Paddling

The majority of students follow the same procedure. Before the school board meets, they talk to the student, explaining the reason for the paddling. Most call the parents beforehand, although it is not legally necessary. The student is asked to bend over and the principal gives the buttocks two or three whacks. "In both instances in which he paddled last year with his 'Board of Instruction,'" John Prime, principal of Kempville Meadows Elementary School, said his paddle was so thin it broke.

Principals feel that they are not emotionally involved enough to paddle a child in anger. A classroom teacher, who is on the scene might, they said, be according to Mr. Gilliam, "You don't lose your cool with the child."

Some students cry. No principal surveyed had ever had a case where a student developed resentment towards him. Very few parents object, according to Mr. Gilliam. "The parents are very cooperative," he said. Gerry Flanagan of Thalia said, "Some parents say 'I will deal with it at home' and as I say 'Please do.'"

Mr. Hill of Princess Anne, called paddling a "crude form of counseling. It works," he said, "if it establishes a better relationship with the student. It's no help if not done in an atmosphere of friendship. Otherwise, it's wrong."

Coastal conference is Oct. 1

A conference on coastal resource management titled "It's Your Coast, Virginia" will be sponsored by the Old Dominion University Institute of Oceanography and the League of Virginia Beaches. The one-day conference will be held Saturday, Oct. 1 at the Hotel Chamberlin in Hampton.

Open to the public, the conference will explore a wide variety of topics related to Virginia's coastal zone and its management. These topics include the size of the area termed coastal zone, the types of activities that should be encouraged and discouraged, the impact of oil refineries and offshore drilling, and the desirability of industry, second home sites and recreational facilities in the coastal zone. Speakers will also discuss methods for managing coastal resources and which levels of government should be involved in that management.

According to League of Women Voters officials, "Virginia's coastal plains have 61 per cent of the state's population with 80 per cent being projected by the year 2000. This growth has emphasized competing demands on the coastal areas—energy development, industry, recreation, agriculture and urbanization."

"The people of Virginia will soon have to make some far-reaching decisions about how their coastal resources should be utilized, and legislation will soon have to be considered by the General Assembly and the governor. This conference addresses only a few of the major conflicts, but hopefully some movement toward solutions will be found within its context."

Following registration from 8:30 to 9 a.m., the conference will begin with opening remarks from Thomas N. Downing, former First District congressman and now special assistant to the Virginia secretary of commerce and resources for coastal resource management. Participants will be welcomed by Dr. Charles O. Burgess, vice president for academic affairs and provost at ODU.

The speakers for the morning session include Dr. Susan E. Bayley, director of Maryland's Coastal Zone Management Program; and Alfred A. Porri Jr., a New Jersey attorney. Bayley, who will speak on "The Value of the Salt Marsh," is a former assistant professor of environmental engineering at the University of Florida. She earned her Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1970 and has served on environmental committees for the American Society of Limnology and Oceanography, the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences, and the Water Resources Committee of the Florida Water Resources Center. Porro is an attorney noted nationally for cases concerning public rights in marsh lands, coastal areas, and environmental and municipal law. He is special counsel to numerous environmental agencies in New Jersey. At Johns Hopkins, he was a professor at several colleges and universities. Porro is the author of more than 15 legal articles for various publications. During the conference he will speak on "Marsh Land Litigation."

Virginia State Sen. Joseph V. Gartlan Jr. will give a luncheon address on "The Role of State Government in Coastal Resource Management." A member of the state senate since 1972, Gartlan is in his fourth year as chairman of the legislative Coastal Zone Study Commission. Afternoon session speakers include William Zarrella, an environmental consultant in research and development for Gulf Oil Co., who will speak on the "Compatibility of industry and Environment." In addition a representative of the Virginia seafood industry will speak on "The Economic Importance of the Seafood Industry in Virginia," and a representative of the British Embassy to the U.S. will discuss the "On shore impacts of Offshore Oil Development in Scotland."

The fee for the conference, which includes lunch, coffee and refreshments, is $7.50, and reservations should be made by Wednesday September 23, overnight accommodations are available at the Hotel Chamberlin.

For further information, or to make reservations and arrange accommodations, call Marcia Gibson, Bureau of Conferences and Institutes, ODU School of Continuing Studies, at (804) 489-6467.

Seek Beach water source says City Council

By LEE CARILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Getting Norfolk water

Involves North Carolina

Although Virginia Beach would like an equity in the Norfolk water system which furnishes Beach water, Hanbury said the city is "always faced with the problem that Norfolk won't allow any equity. He hopes that the study will permit the Beach to address the problem a year in advance and not duplicate any studies being made by the Corps of Engineers."

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing, who is chairman of the Regional Water Authority, took issue with some of the statements made in McClanan's letter to Council. He said statements contained so many errors that he felt obliged to discuss each item.

The presentation on water sources from Col. Newman Howard of the Army Corps of Engineers, which McClanan said would be completed next May, will not be ready until next July, Standing said. Besides, Standing said, in the past, similar Corps projects have taken 17 years to complete.

McClanan also wants the city to await the outcome of the report from R. V. Davis of the State Water Control Board concerning the study going on conducted by the Board in cooperation with the State Water Study Commission.

To McClanan's statement that a satisfactory adequate water source solely within our own boundaries is unlikely, Standing said that "When you don't have any, any amount you can get is satisfactory."

Virginia Beach City Council appears favorable toward spending $100,000 for a study of the city's water sources.

Although Council deferred action on the study for a week, it does not seem likely that the local legislators will go along with the request of Virginia Delegate Glen McClanan to delay action until the completion of a Federal study of water sources in the area.

In a letter sent to Council, McClanan, who serves on the State Water Study Commission, asked that Council be briefed by representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers and the State Water Control Board as to the status of their studies.

Borings, desalination

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the study would include only sources within the city, that there has never been an extensive study in the city, detailed test borings, or volumes available in the city's waters such as Back Bay and Lynnhaven or desalination. He said the study would involve not only finding a source, if there is one, but the location, size and cost of a treatment plant.

"If we are successful in negotiations with Norfolk," he said, the city would have the cost figures involved and Council "would be ready to weigh the costs."

Skating on iceless ice

"Skate-on" is a polymer base plastic termed as "iceless ice." Locations are at 311 Kellam Road and at Virginia Beach Mall.

It's definitely something different for Virginia Beach—iceless ice skating?

At first glance, most people frown with confusion. They look in through the windows and see a long, thin room with serene blue walls. The floor is covered with square blocks that look a great deal like white linoleum. This is an ice skating rink?

It's ice skating all right and Al Grissino, proprietor of "Skate-On," located at Virginia Beach Mall and 311 Kellam Road, sees the "iceless ice" as the best thing to hit Tidewater. According to Grissino, "Skate-On" is a cheaper, better and faster way to learn ice skating.

"Skate-On," a product of the Ice Skating Institute of America, is actually a polymer base plastic. The basic difference between "skate-on" and artificial ice, which is more closely associated with outdoor ice, is that artificial ice becomes wet and slippery while in use. "Skate-On," on the other hand, stays constant, whether at 90 or 40 degrees. The only thing that does affect its surface is sudden drops of more than 20 degree temperatures, grit and sand.

"Instruction (on Skate-on) is one-fourth the cost of artificial ice instruction," said Grissino. "People can't afford to go to places like Scope and the (Hampton) Coliseum to get instruction." Municipal owned facilities, according to Grissino, have too large an overhead to teach at reasonable rates.

And at "Skate-On," Grissino feels, instruction is more individualized and more effective. He emphasizes the "power skating concept" of instruction. It's a concept of skating that concentrates on strengthening the use of the inside muscles. "When my students get on artificial ice," said Grissino, "they are better all around skaters. They have better balance and more power."

According to Grissino, his students advance at a faster rate. One student he trained last year advanced seven levels in eight months.

Although limited in space (only 15 adults or 42 children are allowed on the ice at a time), Grissino sees the possibility of expansion. He wants to start putting on shows as well as to create more competitive meets for his students. He is presently involved with a Girl Scout merit badge program and hopes to add a similar program with the Boy Scouts.

"Skate-On" is open to the public 7-10 p.m. weekdays and 8-10 p.m. weekends and holidays. Lessons are held Tuesday through Friday from 4-7 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Soldier of the year selected

Sergeant Glenn A. Boxley, a senior rough terrain port lift operator with the 368th Transportation Company at Ft. Story, has been selected Soldier of the Year for the Army Transportation Center, headquartered at Ft. Eustis.

Being a winner is nothing new to Glenn. He won his way to Soldier of the Year by first being chosen Soldier of the Month in company competition while the 368th was stationed at Ft. Eustis. From company level, he went onto battalion, group, and post Soldier of the Month.

Sergeant Boxley, a native of Canon City, CO, is one of 17 Soldiers of the year selected at Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) installations.

In addition to an all-expenses-paid trip to Hawaii for six nights at the new Hale Koa Armed Forces Hotel, Glenn and his wife receive $150 for meals and other expenses. The award is intended to provide special recognition to soldiers who have demonstrated outstanding military excellence and achievement in their daily duties.

When asked what advice he would give someone just coming into the Army Glenn responded, "Be willing to do your share and then some more, don't be afraid to take the initiative."

—Rabindranath Tagore

FAITH IS AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR SELF-PITY
The insidious disease of self-pity is one that we all contract at least once in our lives; usually following some sorrow, major disappointment or the conviction that we have failed ourselves and those around us. However, the remedy is simple and un-failing. Instead of wallowing in this morass of despair, we need only turn to faith in God in order to see the fallacy of this waste of our resources, and to divert our energies to the positive channels of helping to ease someone else's misery. So stop feeling sorry for yourself and go to your Church; you will learn that there is always someone out there who needs you -- and your help. It works every time!

Cancer society sponsors

"Miss Hope" contest

District I of the American Cancer Society, Virginia Division, is now taking applications for participation in the 1978 Miss Hope Program.

The program, now in its fifth year, is sponsored by the American Cancer Society and is open to all nurses and student nurses, both male and female. If a male nurse is chosen, the title will be Mr. Hope. District

Miss Hopes will be eligible for the Miss Hope Finals in January when Miss Hope of Virginia will be chosen. Scholarships of $500, $250 and $100 will be awarded to the winner, and first and second runners up, respectively, at the state finals for professional development.

Selection of the District Miss Hope will be based on the presentation of an original two-minute presentation on the hopeful side of cancer, according to Program officials. Applications are available from the American Cancer Society. Completed applications must be returned by October 10, and must be accompanied by a letter of recommendation from the participant's director of nursing, director of school of nursing or employer.

Cub Scouts meet

A warm sunny day was the setting for the Cub Scout Pack 425 annual Ballout Regatta held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher on Club House Road. The theme for the get-together was "Adventures in Water."

The Cubs competed against others in their own age groups and those who sailed their way to victory were: Eight year olds - 1st place - Michael Kirkpatrick, 2nd - Jimmy Fowler, 3rd - Joseph Sarkak; Nine year olds - 1st place - Larry Kirkpatrick, 2nd - Cory Gill, 3rd - Russell Martin; Ten year olds - 1st place - Richard Honaker, 2nd - Larry Kirkpatrick, 3rd - David Ryan.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded to those winners of the Pack Olympics held at Red Wing Park in June. Cory Gill, the overall winner of the pack, went on to compete against other winners and received runner-up from the Tidewater Council at Mt. Trashmore.

In the awards ceremony: Mike Kirkpatrick, Joseph Sarkak and Terry Valentine were Bobcatted; Russell Martin was awarded his Wolf Badge and gold arrow. Larry Kirkpatrick received his Bear Badge and gold and silver arrows and Brad Matlocks earned his silver arrow. Advanced into Webelos were Larry Kirkpatrick, Griff Park, Mike Thompson and Richard Honaker. Webelos awards were given to Chris Mitchell for scientist and citizen, David Ryan for outdoorsman and Chris Mitchell received the Arrow of Light, the Webelos highest award.

Service stars were awarded to Steven Rudd and Chris Mitchell for two years service, Willie Crenshaw for three years service and to Louise Fuller for four years of service.

About seventy-five parents and children attended the regatta. It was one of the best turnouts of the summer. Homemade ice cream was the ending to a great day.

Child-rearing course at TCC

"On - the - job training" is one of the best ways parents can learn one of the world's hardest jobs - rear children. The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College will offer this learning opportunity to concerned parents and others that work with children and youth. The new Spectrum credit-free course will begin in the Fall Quarter and is entitled "Adult Growth and Parent Education (AGAPE)."

The AGAPE program helps parents look at themselves as needing and feeling persons and students will be taught how to communicate more effectively in their relationships with children. For more information call the Office of Continuing Education at 427-3070 or 423-6395.

AFTERTHOUGHT:
Son: "I don't want to go to school. Mom. Nobody likes me. The teachers don't like me. The kids don't like me. The bus drivers hate me. The school board wants me to drop out, and the counselor has it in for me. I don't want to go to school!"

AFTERTHOUGHT:
Mother: "See, you're the principal! You've got to go to school!"

AFTERTHOUGHT:
Arguing with a child is un-fun. You should have an extra drink.

AFTERTHOUGHT:
Teacher: "Who can give me a definition of the word 'budget'?"

AFTERTHOUGHT:
Johnnie: "A budget is a family quarrel."

AFTERTHOUGHT:
The lat-grader approached his teacher and asked in a most serious tone, "Is being a teacher a hard job?"

AFTERTHOUGHT:
"Why, yes," replied the teacher. "It's a very hard job."

The youngster's face fell. He shook his head slowly and walked away mumbling, "Oh well, I guess I'll just be a principal."

A Sobering Thought

Day in and day out you find you need that extra drink. To help you through that meeting. To help you face the family. And everyday that extra drink becomes another extra drink. And it hurts. Write or call in confidence for facts on the program for the treatment of alcoholism. In a comfortable, caring atmosphere. Specialists can help you face the day without that extra drink. Isn't that a sobering thought?

COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA:

In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, on 12th day of September, 1977.

DOLOROUS L. MILLER, Plaintiff

vs.
GEORGE JOSEPH MINER
LOUISE MINER
Respondents.

IN CHANCERY NO. C77-1314

THE OBJECT of this suit is to obtain a release of a certain deed of trust from Russell E. Miller to M. Earl Woodhouse, Trustee, said deed of trust being recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach (formerly Princess Anne County), Virginia, in Deed Book 329 at page 1 and dated June 8, 1959, the property being more particularly described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land located near Setaack in Lynnhaven Borough of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a pipe on the Eastern line of the State Highway known as Bird Neck Road, formerly Drinkwater Avenue, at its intersection between the property of Virginia Whitehurst and running thence North 86 degrees 30 minutes East 805 feet; thence North 1 degree 30 minutes West 205 feet; thence South 86 degrees 30 minutes West 205 feet to the Eastern line of said State Highway; thence along the Eastern line of said State Highway South 1 degree 30 minutes East 75 feet to the pipe, the point of beginning, according to plat of property made August 8, 1948, by W. B. Gallup, County Surveyor, and duly recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach (formerly Princess Anne County), Virginia, on the 12th day of August, 1948, in Map Book 23, at page-----, and designated thereon as Lot A, to which plat reference is hereby made for a more particular description.

And as affidavit having been made and filed that the respondents, George Joseph Miner and Louise Miner, are not now residents of the State of Virginia and that the said difference has been used by or on behalf of the said respondents in which county or corporation is located the respondents are, without effect, the last known post office address for George Joseph Miner and Louise Miner being in care of M. Earl Woodhouse, Trustee, Virginia National Bank, Virginia Beach Branch Office, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23451.

IT IS ORDERED that they do appear here within ten (10) days after due publication hereof and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF PRINCESS ANNE UTILITIES CORPORATION

Notice is hereby given that Princess Anne Utilities Corporation has filed with the State Corporation Commission of Virginia an application requesting an increase in the rates charged for sewerage disposal service. The Commission has suspended the effective date of these proposed increased rates and has scheduled a public hearing on application in its Courtroom, Blanton Building, Bank and Governor Streets, Richmond, Virginia, at 10:00 A.M. on November 24, 1977.

The revised rates and charges are as follows:

RATES FOR SERVICE:

Each residential customer: $19.50 per quarter
Each apartment customer: $15.00 per quarter
Each commercial customer: $15.00 per quarter
Bill is based on water consumption:

First 1,300 cubic feet: $ 9.60 per quarter
Next 7,700 cubic feet: $ 45 per 100 cubic feet
Next 90,000 cubic feet: $ 55 per 100 cubic feet
All Over 99,000 cubic feet: $ 45 per 100 cubic feet
Minimum: $22.00 per quarter

CONNECTION FEES:

Single Family Detached Houses: $250.00
Duplex per unit: $250.00
Single Family Townhouses: $150.00
Apartments (per unit): $100.00
Motels and Hotels (per unit): $ 75.00
Office Buildings (per office): $ 75.00
Gas Stations: $750.00
Restaurants/Drive-ins: $750.00
Laundromats: $750.00
Car Washes: $750.00
All Others: $750.00

Estimated quarterly water consumption in gallons

0	22,500	$ 250.00
22,501	45,000	$ 500.00
45,001	67,500	$ 750.00
67,501	90,000	$1,000.00
All over	90,000	$1,000.00

Plus $250.00 per each 22,500 gallons or fraction thereof

The estimated water consumption will be calculated based on an establishment of like usage. At the end of 12 months, an actual quarterly consumption will be determined and an adjustment to the connection charge will be made if necessary. If the adjustment results in additional connection charges payable, same will be paid within fifteen (15) days after notification. If the adjustment results in a reduction of the original charge collected, same will be refunded within fifteen (15) days. The Applicant will be advised of this procedure at the time of Application for Service.

There will be no further connection charges to the same user unless character or size of business changes, at which time any additional charge will be computed as provided in this tariff.

Copies of the application containing the proposed increase in rates may be reviewed in the office of the Clerk of the Commission, Blanton Building, Richmond, and at any company office at which bills may be paid.

On or before October 27, 1977, the company will file with the Clerk of the Commission ten copies of the prepared testimony and exhibits of each witness. It intends to present in direct testimony in support of its application. Copies of all such testimony and exhibits will be available for review on and after October 27, 1977, in the Clerk's Office of the Commission, or at any office of the company at which bills may be paid.

On or before November 3, 1977, all persons who expect to submit evidence at the public hearing as a party Protest, and to cross-examine company witnesses, must file and serve a Notice of Protest in conformity with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

On or before November 16, 1977, the Commission's Staff and all persons who have filed a Notice of Protest and who still expect to participate at the hearing as a party Protest must file ten copies of all prepared testimony and exhibits of the witnesses to be offered at the hearing, and shall serve a copy thereof upon the company and upon all other Protestants requesting same. Not later than November 16, 1977, all Protestants also shall have filed a written Protest as required by commission rules.

Any interested person (public witness) who desires to make a statement at the hearing in his own behalf, either for or against the application for increased rates, but not otherwise participate in the hearing, need only appear in the Commission's Courtroom at 9:45 A.M. on November 24, 1977, and complete a Notice of Appearance Form which will be provided by the Commission. All such persons will be heard as expeditiously as possible, beginning at 10:00 A.M. or shortly thereafter, at that date.

All written communications to the Commission regarding the application for increased rates should be addressed to William C. Young, Clerk, State Corporation Commission, Blanton Building, P.O. Box 1197, Richmond, Virginia 23209. All written communications to the Company should be addressed to Edwin C. Kellam, Esquire, Suite 1020, First & Merchants National Bank Building, 300 Main Street, Norfolk, Virginia 23510.

On or before October 20, 1977, the Company will file with the Clerk of the Commission ten copies of the prepared testimony and exhibits of each witness. It intends to present in direct testimony in support of its application. Copies of all such testimony and exhibits will be available for review on and after October 20, 1977, in the Clerk's Office of the Commission, or at any office of the company at which bills may be paid.

Not later than November 16, 1977, all Protestants also shall have filed a written Protest as required by commission rules.

Any interested person (public witness) who desires to make a statement at the hearing in his own behalf, either for or against the application for increased rates, but not otherwise participate in the hearing, need only appear in the Commission's Courtroom at 9:45 A.M. on November 24, 1977, and complete a Notice of Appearance Form which will be provided by the Commission. All such persons will be heard as expeditiously as possible, beginning at 10:00 A.M. or shortly thereafter, at that date.

Planetarium program

The program at the Virginia Beach City Schools Planetarium for the month of October will be "From the Shadows of the Pyramids." This program includes a discussion of the purpose and function of the pyramids as based on current research. Ideas of construction techniques based on alignment with the stars are presented.

The Great Pyramid may have been used as a marker for surveying to re-establish boundaries after the floods of the Nile.

Planetarium hours: Sunday: 7:00 p.m., September 2, 16, 23 and 30.

Tuesday: 7:00 p.m. September 4, 11, 18 and 25.

The Planetarium seats 120 people and is easily accessible from the 44 toll road by taking the Lynnhaven Exit to the Lynnhaven Parkway and turning right at the first street—South Lynnhaven Rd., to Plaza Junior High School, where the Planetarium is located.

Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School for reservations at 498-1971. ADMISSION FREE: Children under age 12 may be refused admission unless accompanied by a mature person.

Adult fitness class offered

Every Wednesday evening from 6 p.m. through 10 p.m. the Virginia Beach Recreation Center will hold Adult Night. The entire facility will be available for use by adults (18 and over) who have Virginia Beach Recreation Center I.D. cards.

The program includes use of the gymnasium, swimming pool and teen lounge. Activities include bowling, drop-in crafts program, shuffleboard, ping pong, darts and pool.

For further information, contact the Virginia Beach Recreation Center, 300 Monmouth Lane, phone 499-1281.

Naval academy band

The Naval Academy Band, the Navy's oldest continuing musical organization, will present a special concert at the Naval Amphibious Base Theater on Friday, September 30, at 8:00 p.m. The concert, co-sponsored by the Naval Amphibious Base and the Virginia Beach Neptune Festival, will be a showcase program spotlighting some of the array of individual talent for which the Academy Band is noted. Musical variety—from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Arto Shaw's clarinet concerto—promises something for every musical taste. This concert is free and open to the public.

Plaza civic meet

Princess Anne Plaza Civic League will hold its monthly meeting October 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Plaza Jr. High School, on Lynnhaven Road and Silina Drive, held in Kiva 1. Speaker will be Rebecca Baker, Director of the Virginia Organization of Women (VOW). Her topic will be anti-ERA amendment.

Virginia Beach resident "self taught"

When Virginia Beach resident William R. "Bill" Roetgen received accreditation from the Board of Regents of the State University of New York for 174 semester hours of college credit, it was literally because he was in "a class by himself."

Navy Petty Officer First Class Roetgen, stationed at the Navy's Fleet Combat Training Center in Virginia Beach, earned all his credits—which have since been applied to a bachelor's degree in economics—without ever attending a college class.

Roetgen, who lives at 400 Courtney Arch, Virginia Beach, with his wife, Letitia (the former Letitia Lynn Calvert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Calvert of Norfolk), earned his 174 college credits through standardized tests.

"This is no mail-order degree Roetgen has earned," emphasized Mr. Billy Bishop, an education specialist employed by the Navy. "Not many people could do what he has, although there are a number of educational programs available that offer similar opportunities."

Roetgen, a 1966 graduate of Miami's Palmetto High School, was unaware that the Regent's External Degree Program even existed until earlier this year.

"When I found out that there was a program that would enable me to obtain enough college credit for a degree, I had to pursue it," recalls the amiable Navyman.

Like similar programs offered in a number of other states, the New York Regent's Degree Program is based on a candidate's ability to demonstrate his or her knowledge through tests rather than through the classes they attend. Results of the standardized tests are compared with the scores of "classroom" college students who have completed a course in the test subject. If the scores are comparable, credit is awarded.

The Regent's External Degree Program received full accreditation by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools in June 1977.

The tests 28-year-old Roetgen took (mostly during his lunch hours) are administered by the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support and by the civilian Education Testing Service.

"It took six months to take the 45 tests—including College Level Equivalency Program (CLEP) general and subject tests, DANTES subject tests and two Graduate Record Examinations—to collect my 174 hours of credit," Roetgen explained.

While Roetgen recalls that he joined the Navy in 1963 partially because he felt the Navy offered the best training, he adds, "As a missile fire control technician, I've learned about and worked with equipment including electronic computers, radar and hydraulic systems."

Roetgen, who serves as an instructor at the Navy training center in Virginia Beach, says he feels the Regent's Degree Program is something everyone should take advantage of. "Whether a person is in or out of the military, the Regent's Program is available to them," he notes.

Painting the Beach...

by Eric Stevens

Just a few weeks ago I bemoaned the absence in Tidewater of a classic lesser sax-organ-drums trio that specialized in "Rhythm 'n' Blues-Jazz-Soul."

"Jimmie Moore and Company" hit it on the proboscis at the HOLIDAY INN MIDTOWN, playing slightly except Mondays. Moore plays an amplified sax, but not to acquire volume—rather to get an echo effect. He might remind you of that "school" of ballad players—Sam "The Man" Taylor, Earl Bostic, Syl Austin, Illinois Jacquet—whose playing can best be described in a word: "sassy."

He also admires Stan Getz, Charlie Ventura, and especially Gene Ammons—Jag's—who was a neighbor and was gracious enough to show Jimmie some valuable tidbits. In fact, Jimmie's mother was a saxist in an all-girl band.

Moore started, however, on piano, and was encouraged—even kissed—by guitarist-singer Sister Rosetta Tharpe. He played sax at Rufner Jr. High, Booker T., and Norfolk State, and broke into the business with John Thomas and the Bokum Boys, a big band. In the early 1960's he was in Chicago where he helped Gary "US" Bonds to get on records; remember "New Orleans"? Later, Bonds called for Moore to join him on the road. In 1969 Moore played the Hampton Jazz Festival with Joe Jones. He has penned five songs, but they are in limbo at present. His group has played the Moorpark, Ramada Oceanfront, Holiday Inn (39th and Atlantic), and at Bryce Mountain.

Jimmie worked with the STOP program (antipoverty) in Virginia Beach, and is now with the Norfolk Housing Authority. He drives a full-dress Harley, and when you hear his glib microphone work, you'll find it no surprise that he is a Sagittarian—his aggressive styling and colorful movements further substantiate his birth sign.

In certain settings, Moore will permit musicians to "alt in," a practice that has unfortunately tapered off in recent years.

Barbara Stant sings like a WOMAN. When she does "Dr. Feelgood" the crowd is moved from grunting and groaning to start silence as the trio backs her superbly.

Barbara's influences include Aretha Franklin, Gladys Knight, the Staple Singers. She also digs Natalie Cole, and I'm sure it would be mutual. Ms. Stant reminds me of Etta Jones visually and vocally. Remember "Don't Go To Strangers?"

Barbara is also a Booker T. grad, and worked with the Pop-Tops and with Doug Walker at such places as the Peppermint, Peabody's, Lido's, and Joe's Fish Market. In Hawaii she worked with the Laley Brothers, and has done shows with Al Green. She has appeared on Dick Lamb's and Calvia Perkins' TV shows. If you cannot find her recordings at your local shop try Nimrod's.

Drummer Fletcher Harrell is an all-around PRO with whom Moore is highly impressed.

Hammond Organist John Turner is called "Chops." Probably this refers to his nimble fingers, for "chops" are the thing that make a musician click: fingers, lips, or vocal chords. However, if it derives from "pork chops" that would be highly appropriate, for you won't find amore down-home, funky, raunchy groover anywhere. His work can also be summed up in a word: "GooooOOOONDD!"

Let "Jimmie Moore and Company" have the pleasure of your Company and you'll be hollering for Moore.

The Patriots going through their routine and showing the home crowd how it is done.

They're Friday night entertainers

By BUD LOWE

What happens on Friday nights?

Well at most high schools Friday night means a football game to many people. Yet 50 per cent of those people have little or no interest in the athletes on the field, they come to watch and listen to the bands at half time. And if you don't believe it watch at the next game and see how many people are leaving after the half time show.

This past Friday night was no exception. For those of you who went to the First Colonial vs Princess Anne football game, you saw the show of shows at half time. Both First Colonial's Marching Patriots and Princess Anne's Marching Cavaliers were on the field.

Princess Anne being the guest band made their appearance first. Ron Collins and company put on another fabulous show. The music was superb in every way. The marching and maneuvering was exceptionally good for this early in the season. The general effect was more thrilling than expected.

Yes, again this year Ron Collins has the show that will be the envy of all. His Senior Field Commanders are: Pat Kaiser and Laura Hocky, with Junior Field Commander Louisa Gerard. The Color Guard Captain is Teresa Etheridge, with Co-Captain Natalie Shirey, and Kimberly Lowe as Captains of the Rifle Squad. Next to take the field was Max Gonano and his Marching Patriots from First Colonial. This year Max Gonano's marching band has a shaggy uniform and gave their colors as a surprise and the Patriots sounded and looked pretty good. Their music as usual was played to perfection. Their marching and maneuvering showed some rough edges that are not uncommon for this time of year and with a little more time this will smooth out. The general effects was very good as explained by the roar of the crowd as they went through their routine.

Max Gonano has a show that may put First Colonial in the spotlight this year. They have always been known for their first class music but this year they may surprise many with their field show. His Senior Commander is Patrick Coffey, with Junior Commander Andy Delloro. The Color Guard Captain is Marie Anderson, with Flag Lieutenant Dona Atmsley and Rifle Lieutenant Melinda Harris. While at First Colonial it was discovered that First Colonial's Marching Patriots are raffling off an Orange Bowl Vacation for two, including air transportation, tickets for the Orange Bowl Game and Parade, four nights in Miami and $150 expense money. Now all you have to do to get a ticket for this one is to get in touch with any band member or band parent at First Colonial. This trip is being sponsored by the Band Booster Club of First Colonial.

All the Marching Bands for miles around are getting geared up for the Neptune Festival's Marching Field Competition to be held at 2 p.m. on Oct. 1. This will be the first big competition. So mark your calendars now and remember be at Cox High School on the first of October.

The Marching Patriots forming up to go on field to show what it is all about.

Civitan Advisor

"Teacher of the Year"

Betty Jean Slovacek, a 12th grade English teacher at Kellam High School, has been named the 1977-78 Teacher of the Year for the Virginia Beach public school system. The announcement was made by Division Superintendent Dr. E. E. Erickell at the September 20th meeting of the Virginia Beach School Board.

Ms. Slovacek, in her sixth year of teaching at Kellam, won the honors for her dedication and proficiency as an English teacher and for her extracurricular activities with Kellam High School's Junior Civitan Club. In making her nomination for the award, Kellam Principal Michael C. Thomides said of Ms. Slovacek, "She has demonstrated exceptional and enthusiastic leadership in our Junior Civitan Club and has proven to be an excellent academic English teacher in the classroom."

Under her guidance, the Kellam Junior Civitan Club sponsored the Outstanding Junior Civitan Club award among all clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Australia. She was also selected as the best faculty advisor in the Chesapeake District.

Follow Kellam teacher Mary Osterhouse said Ms. Slovacek's English students "constantly comment on her sincere efforts to enhance their knowledge and her patience and understanding when they have difficulties."

In her four years as Junior Civitan advisor, the Kellam Club has become involved with the Red Cross blood drive and each year the Kellam Club has been the only high school donating blood. In 1976 she was the first woman to join the Virginia Beach Senior Civitan Club.

Born in Houston, Texas, Ms. Slovacek is a graduate of Sam Houston State University with a bachelor's degree in education. She said she almost didn't become a teacher; her father encouraged her to go to college for one year when she wanted to be a legal secretary. After one year, she said, she was "hooked," and she couldn't imagine sitting behind a typewriter now.

Ms. Slovacek says her main objective in teaching is "to help students think for themselves—not just give back information, to delve deeper into subject areas and formulate their own opinions. My favorite word to my students is 'why.' I want them to know the reason for their answer," she says.

When not teaching or involved with extra-curricular activities, Ms. Slovacek is an amateur photographer (she's in the process of converting her laundry room to a photo dark room) and follows football avidly. "I probably know as much or more about football than the average fan," she says with a smile. Her football fanaticism began when she watched the Houston Oilers play while she was working as an usherette in the Astrodome.

Prior to her assignment to Kellam, Ms. Slovacek taught English for four years at Bettie F. Williams Elementary School in Virginia Beach.

Frisbee Champ

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is proud to announce that James Zambelli, sponsored by the department, was the 1st runner-up in the Junior Frisbee World Finals held September 10 in Atlanta, Georgia. James is 15 years old and began his route to the finals by winning the city, state, and southeast regional competitions. The events he competed in were judged on accuracy and distance, also catching the frisbee behind his back and between his legs. James was awarded a trophy and a total of $600 in U.S. Savings Bonds for his participation in this program. The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is proud of James and his efforts in this program.

Girls on the football team?

By MARK GROVES
SUN Sports Editor

That's right, Kempville High School has two girls on its football team...well more or less, anyway. Colleen Asher and Susan Gates are two of the teams managers. To say the least, it is a little unusual to find two girls with the team but Susan and Colleen don't think it should be all that unusual. Heck, they like football so much they would probably play on the team if they could.

What does the team think of having them? Susan says "I guess they like us." "Sometimes," Colleen quickly adds. Why should two girls become team managers, Colleen explains, "I love football and I've been interested in it for a long time. I wish we could play, but if we could make the team I don't think they (the other team members) would like it. I think it would probably cause problems on the field too. You know how it is. A lot of guys would be afraid to hit a girl and others would probably try to kill us."

"Who passes out the towels?"

What about the other girls in school. How have they reacted to their positions with the team? A lot of girls according to Colleen give us dirty looks and want to be on the team like us to meet the guys," Susan adds, "A lot of the girls are jealous. It is fun and there are a lot of nice guys on the team."

I couldn't resist it. My curiosity was killing me. I had to ask them, "Who passes out the towels?" After a couple of minutes of giggling and red faced looks the girls told me, "We don't go in the locker room. We carry the football up and down the field, do some first aid, make sure there is ice in the bucket and sort uniforms, that kind of thing. The other team managers take care of that other stuff."

The other team managers are Lowell Asher, lead manager, Colleen's brother, Tom McCormick, and Frank Stone. The girls explained that they got on the team by just making up their minds to do it and then asking Coach Ed Booth. According to the girls, Coach Booth had already thought about letting girls work as managers and wanted them to do it. They, and the team were a little surprised at first, but they got along well now.

I never did get around to asking the girls if they were doing this as part of a plot by women's Lib to invade football...I really don't think there is any other explanation needed than the girls gave, "We love football."

I was going to ask them a few more questions but we were talking on the sidelines during the game between Kempville and Kellam and the girls kept trying to watch the game and help their team. They needed it. Kellam smashed them 40 to 0. Maybe they should let their managers play.

Bass masters fish for fun and sport.

By MARK GROVES
SUN Sports Editor

About twice a month 18 fathers, husbands, and sons from all over Tidewater are reported missing from their homes by their fishing widows. After some investigation we discovered what happens to these missing men...they're not missing at all...they're fishing in one of the 'Little Creek Bassmaster's' Fish Tournaments.

Last Saturday I found a bunch of these guys gathered around the boat ramp at Captain Kidd's Marina swapping fishing lines, lures and yarns. Fishing stories and friendly jibes were running rampant among the four or five fishermen who either had engine trouble or had kindly volunteered to take a nosy reporter out cruising around to take pictures and disturb the fish.

My gracious hosts and guides for the morning were Al Riley and John Jackson. Jackson is the treasurer of the Little Creek Bassmasters.

We took off in Al's bass boat, slowly until we cleared the marina. Then we took off like the proverbial bat out of hell, Hades, to catch up with the other fishermen.

On the way out to the fishing Al and John explained that to participate in the tournaments you must wear a life preserver, have a sort of 'Deadman' switch connected to the engine so if you happen to fall out of the boat while it is moving the engine will cut off, and you must observe all of the safety rules.

The members of 'Bassmaster's' fish for fun and sport. When they catch a fish they measure it, weigh it and then release it so they have a chance of catching it again someday.

One other thing people may find unusual about the members of the club...they don't drink while they are fishing. Thinking of a fisherman without a beer in his hand is almost as hard as picturing Billy Carter without one. Al explained why, "We want to keep this a good clean sport, so we protect it. There's no drinking, and safety equipment is mandatory. We want to have fun, not a disaster."

Well, all you poor fishing widows take heart. The weather is bound to get cooler and along with that the fishing will cool off. Don't get your hopes up too much. I heard several of the guys discussing the TV football schedule, Saturday afternoon, Sunday, Monday night...

Jim Kruger and Bob Ward officers of Little Creek Bassmasters enjoy the fishing tourney on the Northwest River.

Football, football, who's got the football?

By MARK GROVES
SUN Sports Editor

It almost looked like the 'Patriots' of First Colonial and the 'Marlins' of Bayside were playing hot potato instead of football during the last five minutes of their recent game. There were six turnovers divided equally between the two teams in the last five minutes of the game. Believe it or not, with all six turnovers neither team was able to score, even though Bayside was within four yards of victory at one time. The 'Patriots' prevailed, by one point, the final score...14-13.

After the game I asked Marlins Coach Terry Morton if he thought the recent problem that resulted in the team having to forfeit two of its previous wins had any adverse effect on the team Morton replied, "No, the guys were ready to play, and win, we had the chance to win several times tonight. We turned the ball over too many times. We had the chance to take it away and didn't do it."

First Colonial Coach Frank Webster, speaking after the game said, "The defense won the game. It was great, one of the most exciting games I've seen."

It was one of the most exciting games of the season. The question now is can Bayside, after receiving two disappointments in a row, (the turnover of the scores and their defeat) bounce back? We will find out this Friday when they take on Kellam.

"Who's got it now?" Amy Morton (Right) seems to be a little confused, should she cheer or cry? The football changed hands so many times no one knows what to do. Leslie Jennings (left) and Amy are Mascot's for Bayside.

New assistant soccer coaches named

Virginia Wesleyan College's soccer coach William W. "Bill" Davis announced the appointment of Sam B. Snow and Christopher P. Rennix as assistant coaches with the Blue Marlins for the 1977 season.

The new assistant coaches, who graduated from Wesleyan this past spring, bring with them four years of varsity playing experience during which time each man was twice named to the All-Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference team.

As seniors, Snow was voted as the player with the best spirit and attitude while Rennix received the College's outstanding senior athlete of the year award from a local radio station (WTAR-AM, Norfolk). Both men shared the outstanding senior award given by the team.

As if the college season wasn't enough, Rennix was recently named as Northern Catholic High School's first soccer coach to begin the program there. Of course, the first thing he did was to name Snow as his assistant.

Coaching will not be a totally new experience for them, because in the off-season both coached and played for the Wesleyan team in the Tidewater Soccer League where they again were selected to an All-Star team.

"We're very excited about being on the coaching staff at Wesleyan," says Rennix. "It is a good opportunity for us; not many players could step right into a college coaching position immediately after graduation. I think this shows Coach Davis has confidence in our abilities. We hope to learn a lot about college coaching, and we hope to contribute to the team."

Davis concludes, "I'm sure Chris and Sam will help us quite a bit, and they will make our team better with their input. I feel they will learn a great deal and mature as coaches."

NEW ALBUMS
THE ROLLING STONES-LOVE YOU LIVE
 "A Rolling Stones concert is a very rare combination of magic and excitement. Few other rock groups are able to capture and mold an audience like the Stones. This, the third live album from the Rolling Stones, comes the closest to recreating that feeling of something special. Once you get past the absurd Andy Warhol cover, there are some good things inside. It's a double album that runs close to an hour and a half, and is really a good selection from the entire 14 years of the Rolling Stones. Don't let the ugly cover fool you, it's good."

STEELY DAN-AJA (pronounced - Asia)
 Steely Dan and The Dobbie Brothers have both been following a pattern toward light rock in the jazz vein. The newest Steely Dan album is a long way from the days of Do It Again. There are some very good tracks on this album. Good musicianship and superb production is evidenced from Dan. This album lives up to that expectation. A good album and very catchy light rock melodies make up a memorable LP from Steely Dan.

Elizabeth Taylor

Jean A. Bowman, 520 Smith Lane, Virginia Beach, swept the first place honors and the $25 prize in the last Football contest. Receiving $15 for second place was Christine Robbins, 520 Franklin St., city. 520 Franklin St., city.

Chancespeak. Third place of $10 was taken by W. R. Elm, 904 E. Piney Branch Drive, Virginia Beach. Another football contest was held last night. Why not sales today!

Elizabeth Taylor, proclaimed by many as the most beautiful woman in the world, drew the major attention of the crowds in the opening week-end of the Neptune Festival.

Better beach utilities

On Tuesday, October 18, the City of Virginia Beach will conduct a public workshop on the North Plaza Trail road project. The workshop will be held at 7 p.m. at the Kings Grant Elementary School.

No snow, just tires

Who wants snow tires when autumn has barely hit town? Someone, surely does because Mrs. John Buras sold hers instantly through Virginia Beach SUN classified ads.

"One phone call and immediately, the tires had a new owner. The gentleman picked them up within an hour," says Mrs. Buras. That's the way things go with the POST/SUN classified ads. Place yours at 547-4571.

Riding Tidewater Rapid Regional Transit

(or How I got to work and almost lost my sanity)

By RHONDA NICOLL
SUN Editor

Sixty-five cents will get you a ride on a smelly, smokey bus, a look at a hooker, and a grouchy enough mood that even your best friends won't want to be around you.

Come on, Christine Robbins, the TRT buses from Virginia Beach can't be all that bad. "Wrong. It was one of the most sickening experiences I've ever had," she says. "After I'd met my first hooker on the bus, I decided that I shouldn't be exposed to that. If there had been a child on the bus, she was wearing a skin tight black dress with a 10 inch scoop, glitter eye shadow, high heels and red lipstick. She was extremely overexposed, to say the least. Her dress made a string bikini look big."

Okay, what's wrong with an occasional hooker? What about the good points of the transportation from the beachfront to Military Circle?

"The bus drivers do a good job, but the routes are planned so badly that they just can't keep on schedule."

"The drivers do a good job. One driver told me the whole story behind what he figures is an impossible situation. The routes are planned so badly that the drivers just can't keep on schedule. Then everyone blames them. Drivers just get tired of people bitching at them about things that aren't their fault. Virginia Beach isn't supplying adequate service, especially compared to the other Tidewater cities. Virginia Beach city council should recognize its transportation dilemma."

How does a nice, 20-year old Virginia Beach working girl end up in the middle of a transportation dilemma? All it takes is one Renault, broken down for three weeks and a job off Raby Road near Military Circle. Ping is working hours noon to 3 p.m., and there on the corner stands Christine Robbins, wondering if she'll ever get to work.

Maybe Americans are spoiled by the automobile. Particularly when a 25-minute drive takes from an hour and 20 minutes to an hour and 45 minutes.

Then there was that one night, standing on a corner. The 7:15 p.m. bus never came. Ms. Robbins fumes. Strange men go by making the usual crude remarks. Just a girl trying to earn a decent living. The 8:30 finally arrives, with no explanation of what happened to the mysterious 7:50.

No one really seemed to know it was on time. That's part of the problem. It's all about the city council.

There are no women, men, or even 20 buses on the bus. Ms. Robbins takes up a Virginia Beach member.

No one tells her to put it out.

She can't forget about the lady with the aerosol perfume. "The whole bus reeked so badly of perfume that it made me nauseous."

"And the air conditioner is always off when it's hot and on when it's cold."

"The brakes sometimes get slammed on so hard that it is like an airplane landing. The TRT buses should definitely have seat belts."

At least it doesn't cost much.

"True. It usually costs 65 cents, although it may cost 75 cents the next day. I've been quoted several different prices, but I've always paid 65 cents because that's what I've told them it costs. There was some confusion about prices."

Still, Ms. Robbins, you must admit that you got back and forth to work every day. How does that make you feel about the bus service?

"I think it stinks. I had to leave two hours before work to get there on time and I came home in a bad mood every night. I dreaded getting up the next morning. It's almost easier to walk to work. I never want to ride the bus again."

"I had to leave two hours before work to get there on time and I came home in a bad mood every night."

Ready and waiting to go to work, Christine Robbins positions herself patiently at the TRT stop closest to her home at the beachfront.

Time passes slowly on a street corner

Energy drains away.

There's got to be a better way.

Notice of Public Hearings on PROPOSALS FOR COASTAL RESOURCES MANAGEMENT IN VIRGINIA

Public hearings will be held by the Office of the Secretary of Commerce and Resources on October 1, 1977, at 4:00 pm and 7:00 pm in the Norfolk City Council Chamber for the purpose of receiving public comment and recommendations on the draft documents, Proposals for Coastal Resource Management in Virginia. Virginia's Draft Coastal Resource Management Program includes proposals for land use planning and management to ensure the preservation and conservation of marine resources, designation of areas of particular concern, shoreline erosion, shorefront public access, fisheries management, permitting of shore-line projects, planning for major facilities, state assistance to localities, consistency of federal action with state and local interests, and research and educational needs for coastal resource management.

Comments and recommendations will be considered in revising the Coastal Resource Management Program for Virginia. The revised Program will be submitted to the Governor; General Assembly; and U. S. Department of Commerce, Office of Coastal Zone Management in 1978.

All interested parties are urged to attend the hearings and give the Office of the Secretary of Commerce and Resources the benefit of their comments and recommendations relative to the Proposals for Coastal Resource Management in Virginia.

Plaza little league

Vandals don't play fair

By JOAN COATES
SUN Staff Writer

The Plaza Little League ballpark stands idle now. Weeds are growing high on the outskirts of the diamonds and a few children can be found riding mini-bikes across the fields. No one much comes to the ballpark in the off season, except the neighborhood children and the vandals.

Sometime during the night of Saturday, September 17, vandals broke in the concession stand, field house and press box. "It was just pure destruction," said Barbara Pitt, vice-president of the league.

Bags of popcorn were torn open and dumped all over the floor. Soft drink syrup was added to the popcorn and the back room of the concession area was used as a bathroom. Files were scattered and destroyed in the field house and doors, locks and ceilings were torn apart in order to enter the buildings. An expensive PA system was in the field house but the vandals left it alone.

This is not the first time Plaza Little League has had trouble with break-ins. Last May at the height of the season, vandals broke in the concession stand and threw the contents of a freezer full of hot dogs and hamburgers all through the park. "Thawed meat was all over the park," said Mrs. Pitt. "and it had to be cleaned up so no child would pick it up." They entered the stand by going through a cement wall.

Two years ago, an adult and several children were prosecuted by the league for backing a truck up to the concession stand and unloading it.

"Every time this happens it costs (the League) money," said Mrs. Pitt. "People want to know where all the money goes," she said. She estimated the damage in May at $1,500.

The league gets its funds from donations, sponsors for the teams, the ladies auxiliary fund raising projects and a small profit from the concession stand. "The concession stand is really there for the enjoyment of the boys and the convenience of the parents," Mrs. Pitt said.

"I don't feel it's the boys who play ball here who are breaking in," she said. "They all know how hard everyone works. They all appreciate being able to play ball."

The league is a very well organized operation, according to Mrs. Pitt. They have 52 baseball teams and every boy who signs up is allowed to play, she said. Games go full blast during the season, scheduled every night and from 8 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

"It's a full time job running this thing," said Mrs. Pitt. Mrs. Pitt, who is employed as a real estate agent, said that in the off-season no one knows about the break-ins except the board. "Last year we formed two or three hour watches," she said. "We'd sit here all night waiting. It just got to be too much."

Soft drink syrup was added to the popcorn and the back room of the concession area was used as a bathroom.

This was the mess found on the floor of the Plaza Little League concession stand vandals broke in sometime Saturday night, Sept. 17.

Is he carrying out majority's will?

Virginia Beach Sun:

How can any legislator who has been elected to office for the purpose of carrying out the will of the overwhelming majority of the people, with regard to the security and defense of our country, have the gall to make an about-face of our country, have the gall to make an about-face and vote FOR ratification of the deceptive, ambiguous, unfair Panama Canal treaties? Is he forgetting his oath of office?

Apparently such a legislator intends to carry out his own self-centered interests, and is willing to enter into a shady deal with an unscrupulous group determined, at all costs, to carry out its own idea about what our foreign policy should be.

You may recall that it was David Rockefeller, chairman of the Council on Foreign Relations, who invited Congressman Jimmy Carter, to call on him in London, and suggested to him that he join the Trilateralists.

Subsequently, I had some qualms on reading a lengthy article in the Washington Post that appeared on a Sunday, Jan. 16, 1977, captioned: "Web Enough for the Plot Minded." A week later the Philadelphia Inquirer had virtually the same article but it was captioned: "The Trilateralists Are Running Our Government." Let's put a stop to this robbery of the voter's rights.

A senator or congressman, whether or not he happens to be a member of the Council on Foreign Relations or a Trilateralist, that votes for ratification of a treaty that makes a mockery of our form of government is violating his oath of office. It is, therefore, your duty and mine, to remove these legislators from office just as soon as they vote FOR ratification of the treaties.

Paul Chiera

As a result, Senator Coleman has developed specific programs that he would like to implement. These include the uniform sentencing of criminals and the merit system of selecting judges.

Virginia needs a leader in the office of Attorney General who will implement programs such as these. Senator Coleman has shown that he has not only the qualifications but the leadership as well.

Virginia Needs a man like Marshall Coleman.

Yours truly,
Mary B. Davis

Hotels, houses

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Where does the intrusion upon a residential area stop? The homeowners want land along Club House Road reserved from residential to hotel and motel complex.

The homeowners who take pride in living in this area want before the Virginia Beach Planning Commission to no avail. They did not even listen to Mr. Scott, Director of Planning, who opposed the rezoning to prevent further non-residential intrusion into the neighborhood. Can the City Council of Virginia Beach save our residential areas?

Sincerely,
Willard J. Creshaw

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Though most of us are still wailing from the heat of the worst summer in years, there are some good reasons why we should begin thinking about the elections to be held in November. Marshall Coleman is one of those reasons.

Currently running for the office of Attorney General, Senator Coleman has already established himself as an outstanding scholar, trial lawyer and legislator. The record shows that Senator Coleman has been actively concerned with a wide array of issues, and he has devoted special attention to law enforcement problems.

Lynnhaven plans bazaar

The annual Bazaar, sponsored by the United Methodist Women of the Lynnhaven United Methodist Church, will be held in the Social hall of the church on Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7.

Lunch will be served both days and a dinner of ham or turkey will be served from 5:00 'til 7:00 pm on Friday only.

Included in the Bazaar will be a variety of booths featuring good things to eat, baked goods, a Christmas bazaar, "Country Store," Hand-made crafts, an Early American Shop, a rummage room, and many other interesting and unusual articles. The public is invited to come out and see Lynnhaven Church - one of the older churches in the area. The original was built by farmers and fishermen in 1872 - where preaching was conducted by circuit riders. It later was placed on a charge along with Beechgrove, Haygood and Salem.

Members are now getting ready to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Lynnhaven United Methodist Church.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."
-Psalms 119:105

It is better to light one little candle than to curse the darkness.
-Author Unknown

LET FAITH BE YOUR LIGHT IN THE ROADWAY

In the eternal conflict between light and darkness, remember that light is a positive force, while darkness is merely the absence of light, without power of its own. Therefore, it takes but a small amount of light to carry you through the darkest hours of your life; if faith is the source of it. By living one day at a time, you will allow this ray of light to cast its protective beam far enough ahead on the roadway to guide your footsteps. Then follow it to Church, where you will learn to walk in the light of faith and banish the darkness forever.

Pharmacist has "tried them all..." discovers weight control program that really works!

Pharmacist Dan Smith of Burger's Drug Store in St. Charles, Illinois is a NaturSlim "believer" after losing 16 pounds in just two weeks. After hearing so much about the NaturSlim program from customers and seeing the excellent results they were having, Dan decided to try it himself.

"In my many years as a pharmacist, I've seen and tried numerous weight-loss plans, but none have worked as well for me as NaturSlim. And NaturSlim is very nutritional too!"

After three months, Dan has not regained any of the lost pounds either, as so often happens when "rebounding" from starvation diet plans. He maintains his weight by taking NaturSlim once daily... and eating normally otherwise.

Dan says, "It was surprisingly easy, too! I didn't have to attend any weigh-ins, starve myself or do any special exercises."

With the NaturSlim program, there are no shots, drugs or long lists of forbidden foods. In fact, you are encouraged to eat a normal, well-balanced dinner every day.

The next time you are in the St. Charles area, stop by Burger's Drugs and see Dan yourself. He'll tell you personally what he thinks about NaturSlim!

The Kale KATCH-ALL

KALE KATCH-ALL GUARANTEES A SOLUTION TO MANY OF THESE PROBLEMS. JUST TAKE A GLANCE AT THIS:

Much more than just a sink trap, the marvelous new Katch-All pat. #393-3602, eliminates your plumbing problems... while saving your valuables from washing away forever. Made from clear Lexan material...the trap allows free passage of water through the unit and yet by means of a tooth-like screen, restricts the passage of small objects such as contact lens, diamond rings, chains or earrings. As a result of the unit being easily removable, it also eliminates clogging due to hair, small objects (metal or plastic), cutlery, food particles, etc. Consequently, the use of liquid drain openers, plungers or even plumbers themselves is unnecessary.

INSTRUCTIONS

The Katch-All is truly a money saving revolution no matter how you look at it-and is easily installed, can be operated by the housewife.

The Kale Katch-All is a unit consisting of five parts: 1) The bowl 2) The tooth-like barrier ring 3) The rubber O-ring 4) The two arm-like clamps.

In its installed position, the parts appear as those respective positions from bottom to top. In order to remove the bowl and barrier ring for cleaning or removal of valuables, you 1) while holding the bowl in place, push outward from the center on the two arm-like clamps with your thumbs, thus lifting them up free from the bottom of the bowl. 2) Next lower the trap bowl O-ring and barrier ring together, away from the place, still holding it with one hand. 3) Now lift out the bowl and the barrier ring from the bowl.

still holding the bowl upright. 4) Remove all valuables and foreign particles from the barrier ring, and reinsert the unit onto the bottom of the pipe neck, reposition the two arm-like clamps downward in the bowl to hold the unit in place.

Match pistol competition

Fred Simpson, a member of the Norfolk County Rifle Club, prepares to fire during Pistol Match competition at the

By MARK GROVES

Ready on the right. Ready on the left. Ready on the firing line, the targets turn and the blasts of powerful 45's pound your ears, sending hot lead streaking down-range and hot brass flying back over the shooter's right shoulder. Another pistol match has gotten underway at the Oceana Rifle and Pistol Club.

Every Tuesday and Wednesday you can find members of the Norfolk County Rifle Range of Chesapeake and members of several military and retired military gun clubs competing in the Fifth Naval District League Match. These are the guys that many anti-gun people don't like to admit exist. Match Pistol Competitors, people who shoot pistols for pleasure and sport. Their pistols are about as far removed from the infamous 'Saturday Night Special' as you can get and still have a pistol. Most of these people wouldn't be caught anywhere near a cheap handgun, their pistols are expertly made precision instruments that cost at least $300, and most cost much more than that.

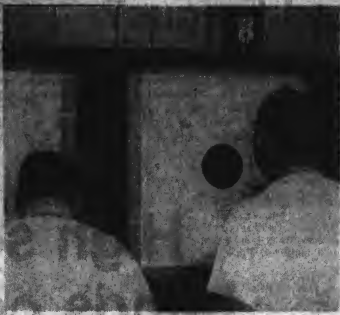

The match firing line is strictly regimented. The only time you are allowed to even touch your pistol is upon the range officer's command. Competition is timed with an automatic timer that turns the targets from a sideways position to a head-on position when firing is supposed to begin and back when competition is completed. This way times are precise and no one has a chance to sneak an extra shot. An additional insurance against someone 'sneaking one in' you're only allowed to load only the exact number of shots to be fired at any one time.

Andy Ross on sports

WRITING ABOUT SPORTS

is a blast

Range Officers Robert Omeares and Tony Oberholts check the scores during the competition.

When firing is completed the 'clips' are removed from the pistols, chambers are checked, then pistols are laid on the bench in front of the competitors. Upon the range officer's command everyone goes forward to count up the score. Competitors do not score their own targets. The next person on the firing line checks the first person's and vice-versa.

The shooting at the matches is excellent. Several of the local competitors have participated in national match pistol competitions.

Often the bullet hole patterns were very close. Sometimes one bullet would go thru a previous bullet hole. When this happened a plastic overlay with circles representing the exact size the holes are supposed to be would be brought out and the holes checked to see if they were too big to have been made by one bullet. It is nearly impossible for two bullets to make one hole that is not at least slightly larger than a single bullet hole.

Although competition takes place on two nights it is actually only one match. Frank Harrigan, vice-president of the Norfolk County Rifle and Pistol Club, and a National Pistol Match Competitor, explains why the competition is spread out over two nights. "There are too many people participating for everyone to be able to shoot in one night, so competition is split between Tuesday and Wednesday with the best scores from both nights counting toward the team standing. For example, if 11 people shoot for a team, only the best seven scores are counted. The low 4 scores are dropped." Harrigan went on to clarify eligibility requirements for the two night competition. "Only people who are on one of the match teams are allowed to participate. You'd have to contact one of the clubs and become a member before you could join in this match."

Take my word for it, it's a blast...sorry I couldn't resist it.

This is Andy Ross writing about sports. I'm back once again to explain and justify my NFL conference predictions; and like last week picking a division winner will not be an easy task.

Like last season, the Houston Oilers can expect another losing season. They are a team always promising but rarely producing. The defense - a very good one - is set, and balanced properly with experience, all-pros, and talented rookies. The problem is the offense. Pastoria (now in his last season), Rucker, Holder, and Roan. Greg Pruitt is a 1000-yard performer, but he tells without the help of a good fullback. The offense is balanced and can score points. The problem, on the other hand, is defensive in nature: out for the season is Jerry Shert (an all-pro) and the highly touted draft choice Robert Jackson. In fact, the defense is a balanced blend of adequacy and adequacy - and will sometimes allow more points than the offense can score. A more difficult schedule will allow the Browns only to break even at 7-7.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, two-time Super Bowl champs, started their last year, and can expect more of the same this year. In other words, they will go 11-4, 4 more wins - and will not only not win the Central Division, but will be beaten out for the wild-card team by the New England Patriots.

Pigskin Preview

Kempville Chiefs

1976 record 1 & 2

Opponents - Maury

Place - Foreman Field

Offense - Head football Coach Ed Booth says, "We've had a problem with our offense: mainly blocking, that's the name of the game blocking. First Colonial hurt us with the trap plays, we were able to stop their triple option. We are working on our offense, but we aren't improving the way we should. One of these weekends we're going to get it all together. One of the biggest problems we have is lack of experience, most of our players are sophomores and juniors."

Defense - According to coach Booth, "We've got to stop the trap, it's as simple as that."

Keys to Victory - Coach Booth says, "We've got to go out and keep on trying. We've got to work on the fundamentals, that's where the game is won, the fundamentals, passing, blocking, running, that's where it's really won, not by razzle dazzle."

Kellam Knights

1976 record 6-3-1

Opponents - John Marshall

Place - Kellam

Offense - According to Head Football Coach John Cooke, "We have to work on our offense. We only had the ball for ten plays in the second half of our game against Bayside. We had far too many penalties. We didn't play a good offensive game. James Smith scored our only points last week by making a 19 yard field goal with only 14 seconds left in the first half."

Defense - "We played one heck of a defensive game against Bayside," says coach Cooke. "Bayside has the number one ranked offense in the district and we didn't let them score. So far this season we've played five games and we've had three shutouts. I'd like to mention some of the players who did an outstanding job in the game. Left defensive guard Tony Blaher tripped up the Bayside ball carrier in a fourth and goal situation. Offensive and Defensive Tackle Wally Brown, who at six four, 240 lbs. is the best in the district, all of the major colleges want him. We've had people down from Ohio State, Texas A & M and several others to check Brown out, last week he made 7 tackles, and a blocked pass. Wally has the potential to be the best in the state. Linebacker Lamar Cuffee made 12 tackles and one interception. Our other linebacker, Ronnie Furebee made eight tackles. Defensive guard Carl Foreman made 10 tackles. David Bunn made six tackles and one interception. Safety Tim Hutton made six tackles."

Keys to Victory - Coach Cooke says, "We can't get too down about our game against John Marshall, they're from out of the district and we have beaten them every time we've ever played them. We also have to look forward to the next game which is against Princess Anne, they are always consistent. All of our games are important, they all count if you tie for district champs. Last year we were in a three way tie for the District Championship, we don't want that this year."

Hunter's safety course

The National Rifle Association's Hunter's Safety Course is being given every Wednesday and Thursday at the Oceana Rifle and Pistol Club. The course is open to the public. The only requirement is one dollar to pay for materials.

Over 170 people took the course in September. The course is excellent and as far as this reporter is concerned, it should be a requirement that it be taken before a hunting license is issued. It is required if you plan on hunting on government land.

For further information on the course just call 486-4575 or 425-3184.

Pittsburgh has a very fine group of receivers (led by Lynn Swann), an awesome running attack in Harris, Blair, Ford, and Harrison, some exceptional but underrated offensive linebacks, and an inconsistent quarterback in Terry Bradshaw. The Steelers, if the offensive unit remains healthy, will score points most of the time.

The renowned Pittsburgh defense will not duplicate its record of previous seasons. Age will begin to catch up with it this season; and unless previous years' opponents will be able to pass and run and score against it, Lambert is back and so is Blount (though quite overrated) but Russell may not be so easy to replace. Make no mistake about it: the Steelers are a very good team but simply not as good as in previous seasons - and a more difficult schedule will add to the problem.

The Cincinnati Bengals, on the other hand, are a team ready to take over the top spot. A magnificent passing attack led by Ken Anderson to Isaac Curtis and Bob Trumpy will score points, but will once again over-balance the running attack which occasionally lacks consistency.

Archie Griffin will make the 1000-yard club this season because of increased blocking at fullback - Griffin's old Ohio State teammate Pete Johnson was a top draft choice. The other running backs - Clark, Elliott, Davis, and Fritts - can be good. I believe they will be this season. The defense is one of the very best against the pass and the run - and is seasoned with all-pros, experienced competitors, and very talented rookies.

In fact, the Bengals have been stockpiling young talent for the last several years - and they are now ready to win the division, especially aided by a schedule somewhat easier than Pittsburgh's. 11 - 3 and a title finally.

Next week I'll attempt to justify the Western Division in both the American and National Conferences. Since your opinion probably doesn't agree with mine call me on WHOR's SportsTalk show, Monday through Friday, 6:00 - 7 p.m. and let's talk about it.

PTST
talking about TV
PRIME TIME SCHOOL TELEVISION

Do TV police shows present false impressions of the police? Are unrealistic expectations for real law enforcement officers being fostered by TV police shows? Are constitutional guidelines for law enforcement being represented accurately? Do relatively quick solutions to baffling crimes mold the police into super heroes? The fast action and often gripping drama of television police shows have outlasted them to the top of the ratings. But parents, educators, lawyers, and police officials have expressed growing concern over the violent aspects of the programs, and the misinformation about the law and law enforcement that they may convey.

Last year there were 23 weekly hours of network police and detective shows broadcast. Adults and youngsters alike are familiar with the protagonists and with the TV portrayal of the role of police in our society. But is the portrayal real?

To help you and your family view these popular programs more critically, Prime Time School TV suggests the following:

- On TV all conflicts are resolved in the last 20 minutes (in hour shows) or 10 minutes (in half hour shows). Compare the dramatic solutions to crime with actual criminal investigations as described in newspaper accounts. Are the methods realistic?
- Syndicated columnist Sydney Harris (Chicago Daily News) said, "A good cop uses his gun as little as possible, and some of the best have never fired theirs, except in warning. The cop who kills is not considered a hero by his peers or bosses, but inept, stupid and possibly even cowardly." Discuss this statement with your children. How do TV police (Kojak, Barretta, Mike Stone, Starky and Hutch) compare to Mr. Harris' description of a 'good cop'? When is it necessary to use a gun?
- As you watch TV police and detective shows, write down the clues on one side of a piece of paper. As the television characters gather clues, try to solve the crime. Write your hypotheses on the right side of the paper. Use only the information the TV police have gathered.
- Consider how TV police solve a crime. Is it difficult to gather evidence? Do they rely on luck, deduction, tips from informers, questioning suspects?
- Note the procedures followed by TV police in arresting, searching and questioning suspects. Do their tactics follow or violate the guidelines set forth in the Bill of Rights? (For example, a suspect has the right to remain silent, etc.)

For information on a curriculum unit, TELEVISION, POLICE AND THE LAW which goes into greater depth on this issue, please write to: Rebecca Wheeler, PTST, 120 S. LaSalle St., Suite 110, Chicago, IL 60602.

ALBUM REVIEWS - BILLY JOEL-THE STRANGER (Columbia JC 34997)
This is not the same Billy Joel who gave us "Island Man" and "Captain Jack." That Billy Joel was a young, suffering, tense and emotional artist.
The new Billy Joel is still an artist, but he's middle-aged now. He cares about different things now. It is a difficult change to adjust to, but it's still Billy Joel. Many people could identify with the "lonely-people-in-a-bar" image he put in "Piano Man."
It is harder to imagine as many people catching the mood in his song to a suburban Long Island Catholic girl named Virginia, with the memorable title - "Only The Good Die Young." It must be a good album to some people, because there are some good things in it. It just isn't the same Billy Joel that he used to be.
JOAN ARMSTRADING - SHOWN SOME EMOTION (A&M SP 4643)
Joan has become quite popular in the Tidewater area in the last few months due to her superb concert appearances and her fine previous album "Joan Armstrading" (A & M SP 4548). Her new album needed to be at least as fine to continue the growth in acceptance she has enjoyed here. The new album is a joy.
The moods she creates and the feelings she conveys are things few other performers do as well. There are moving, soft mellow sounds like "Warm Love." And tracks like "Mama Mercy" that are the rocking-blue Joan creates so well. If you have liked any Joan Armstrading before, you won't have to try too hard at all to enjoy this one.
BACK ONCE AGAIN were some new releases that arrived this week from Tommy James and Rick Nelson. The familiar names just kept popping up.
The new Tommy James is "Midnight Rider" (Fantasy F-9533) and Rick Nelson's new one is "Intakes." He is now on the Epic label (Epic E-34420).

By BARRIE YOUNG

In the greater Tide-water dining area there are perhaps a Baker's Dozen a Chinese food establishments, of all kinds. They run the gamut from barely Chinese, mostly American home-ethnic and traditional Chinese restaurants.

Our place of honor this week in Kempsville Plaza goes to the Moon Palace. Moon Palace rates high by any standards—Chinese or American. But the Lee family at Moon Palace consistently sets themselves a goal of superb Cantonese cooking. And they achieve it.

This family restaurant offers a minimum of 22 house specialties for dinner. But you can get nearly any authentic Chinese dish either by asking, or phoning ahead (499-5770) for specials, or take out orders.

We sampled, to the point of gorging, the Cantonese food being prepared for the family. New to us was the charming custom of the owners and all employees sitting down after hours, waiting on and serving each other. It makes for a pleasant and cooperative, well informed staff -- and is particularly useful in training folks new to the customs and foods.

When eating Chinese food, it is most appropriate to use chopsticks. The hostesses will be most glad to help you learn.

The hostess, Mrs. Jean Lee -- a former restaurant owner in Norfolk -- will be most pleased to help you select or plan your dinner.

Also worthy of mention are the exotic Polynesian and mixed drinks. On weekdays Moon Palace offers a wide selection of luncheon specials, starting from $1.80.

While located in Kempsville Plaza on Princess Anne Road (between Newtown Rd. and Witchduck Rd.) You should be advised that Moon Palace is not easily visible from all directions.

The street address is 351 Kempsville Plaza, and our advice is to approach Moon Palace by coming in the main entrance off Princess Anne Road to Kempsville Plaza, heading toward Big Star, and then turn right (west toward Norfolk). There are the end of the Plaza's main group of businesses is Moon Palace.

Alice Lee runs a final check prior to opening. She and husband Lee, Vick Ching-Ching, most often use last name first, have recently opened Moon Palace, one of the newest Chinese establishments in the area.

The Moon Palace is located at 351 Kempsville Plaza Shopping Center, Princess Anne Road and Parliament Drive, phone 499-5770.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT
Supplement to the Chesapeake POST
Virginia Beach SUN
Sept. 28, 1977

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

Now is the time for a thorough fall home fix-up! It's time to plug the leaks, repair the pipes and fill the cracks. . . to insulate, investigate and initiate repairs so that Old Man Winter will find you energy-saving and agony-free!

Homeowner beware of overimproving

The National Home Improvement Council warns homeowners who are thinking about making improvements to their homes, to beware of overimproving a house for its neighborhood.

Don't, for example, pour $75,000 into a house in a neighborhood of $50,000 houses, unless you truly love your home and hope to stay in it a long time, and don't care about getting your money back.

No matter what the improvement or modernization, it will add top-dollar value only when it is appropriate for the house.

A $15,000 kitchen is clearly inappropriate for a $25,000 home, just as a Roman bath for a Cape Cod cottage or an English Tudor wing for a Midwestern ranch.

Remodeling obviously should conform in price and style to the house.

Beware also of spending money on improvements just to increase the resale value of your house. This seldom pays.

Cleaning carpets is easy with some of the new convenience products on the grocery shelves.

For heavy, once or twice a year cleaning, there are a number of machines you can rent in stores that shampoo or "steam clean" rugs.

They're easy to use and much less expensive than calling in a professional. Just follow the directions carefully.

In addition, for regular in-between cleanings, use a foam spray rug cleaner. Spray it on, wait until the foam dries, and then vacuum up the dried foam and dirt. It leaves the carpet clean and bright again.

Careless hot water use can be avoided

You can waste a lot of energy and money by careless use of hot water in your home.

When you replace your gas hot water heater or appliances using hot water, be sure to investigate energy saving features which manufacturers are including in new products. But using your appliances and hot water wisely can also save.

1.) Reset the thermostat on your hot water heater to the warm setting, or about 120 degrees.

2.) Install a special insulation jacket around the outside of your water heater (kits are available at many stores).

3.) Repair dripping water faucets (hot and cold).

4.) Wash full loads of clothes and dishes.

5.) Use less water when bathing.

6.) Insulate hot water pipes in crawl spaces or where exposed to outside air.

7.) Dry full loads of clothes and clean the clothes dryer lint filter after every load.

Lawn upkeep vital

A survey of real estate people reveals that an attractive lawn and plantings not only add to the resale value of a house, but will significantly increase the speed with which the house is sold.

A well-kept lawn, they figured, would add an average of more than $1,400 to the resale value of a $45,000 to $50,000 house.

Adding a room? Careful planning can save fuel

With heating and cooling costs up sharply, energy conservation in a home environment project has become nearly as important as additional living space.

Suppose, for example, you're thinking of adding a bedroom to a house that faces south. Should you

In the warmer climate of the South, it's best to position the new bedroom at the east end where it will receive the morning sun. At the west end, the bedroom would receive the warm afternoon sun.

When planning windows for any home improvement, remember that considerable heat loss can occur through and around loose-fitting windows.

With factory-engineered windows glazed with double pane insulating glass and factory-applied weather both conduction and air infiltration can be reduced significantly, with resultant lower fuel bills, compared with units of

Tips for stopping heat loss

Insulating your home properly is one of the key ways to stop it from being an energy-waster. In addition, these other tips,

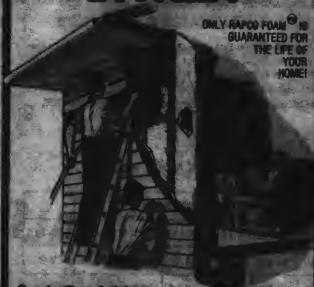

1. Weatherstrip and caulk around all windows and doors. If they are leaking air, you may be increasing your heating bills by 15 to 30 percent.

2. Install storm windows or insulating glass. This will cut in half the amount of heat lost

Heating costs reduced

If you use gas for heating — and nearly 33 million households do — you can save energy and control rising energy costs.

Here are a few energy savings tips from the American Gas Association.

1.) 24-hour thermostat setback to 65 degrees F in the daytime, and even lower at night, during the winter months.

2.) Don't block air vents.

3.) Draw drapes at night; open them on sunny

4.) Caulk window and door frames; use weather stripping.

5.) Adequate ceiling insulation (six to eight inches) cut heat loss significantly.

6.) Install storm doors and windows. Low cost plastic storm windows are available in many areas.

7.) Insulate ducts in spaces which are not heated.

8.) Clean or replace furnace air filters frequently.

THE HOME OF 2001 will be energy self-sufficient using solar energy systems predict many experts. Solid vinyl siding and fire-resistant Class A fiber glass based shingles, both available now and designed to last 20 years, will help make it maintenance-free. And, since energy conservation will be important, it will include extra thick batts of fiber glass insulation in the attic and in the sidewalls.

The causes of condensation

The cause of condensation are invisible. Its progress is insidious. But the damage it can do to a home is very real.

Because condensation can deteriorate — even destroy — just about every material a home is built of.

Excessive condensation can "ruin" paint and wallpaper, crumble plaster, spoil furnishings, and even cause entire walls to be covered with mold and mildew.

Inside a structure, condensation can cause wood to rot, masonry to spall, and metal to corrode. But all these problems don't have to happen. Condensation can be stopped.

Condensation is simply moisture — the same kind that sometimes collects in the corners of your windowpanes.

People tend to blame their windows for condensation, but that's unfair to the windows.

Condensation, simply stated, comes from water vapor, or humidity — one of the invisible components of air.

When airborne water vapor reaches a surface that's cool enough, the vapor condenses.

That's why pipes sweat, why windows get steamy, why walls become damp.

The first way to stop condensation is to attack its source: the water vapor in the air. Water vapor comes from a dozen different sources, from human bodies to cat and dog bodies to cooking, bathing, and laundering.

If a homeowner has a condensation problem, the first thing to do is to check moisture sources.

If moisture can be controlled at its source (or better yet, vented out of the house, as a clothes dryer vent does), the problem may be over.

HEAT LOSS IS OUT

Quadra-prime™ Replacement Windows

If your windows are old, worn and loose, they can be a major cause of heat loss (or gain in the summer). Loose fitting windows are really a little bit open at all times. They let in cold air in the winter, hot air in summer. Heating or cooling this unnecessary "air infiltration" in the home is like money going out the window. But it can be reduced by replacing those worn-out windows with Quadra-prime replacement windows. For more information about Quadra-prime and how they can save you money, call:

Time to fix up your home!

As the fall season sets in, homeowners will be getting out the hammer and nails, taking advantage of the last of the good weather for home repairs and improvements.

Though the recession is easing off, the cost of building or buying a new home is still beyond the reach of most families.

So, the continuing trend is to make the most of the old house rather than move.

WINTER PLANNING

Remodelers are thinking ahead toward winter, and planning for the increased time spent indoors.

They'll be converting basements, porches, attics and other spare rooms into extra living space.

And, fixing up existing rooms — a fresh coat of paint, new paneling — raises the spirits when it's chilly outside.

The rising cost of fuel for home heating will be another major factor motivating homeowners to make improvements this season.

Many Virginians are conserving energy out of concern for the growing worldwide environmental crisis.

But many more will be acting just to help make ends meet.

FUEL SAVING

With Vepco asking for price hikes, and no letup in sight, homeowners are apparently deciding it's worth the investment now to save fuel — sometimes in sizeable amounts — later.

These fuel-saving improvements run the gamut from the minor to radical.

Proper insulation will reduce fuel bills by half — and at the same time help conserve the nation's energy supply, according to the National Home Improvement Council.

If a home is more than 15 years old, it is most likely inadequately insulated. As a consequence the homeowner may be paying almost twice as much as he should to keep his house comfortable, since poor insulation can result in the waste of 45 percent of all the fuel consumed.

Caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows and doors can save an additional 10 percent heat loss.

ALTERNATIVES

The more ambitious are exploring alternative sources of home energy, such as wind and solar power.

Far from being Rube Goldberg pipe dreams, these methods are becoming very practical choices — since after the initial outlay, the energy source is free.

The do-it-yourself trend is healthy and still growing, as homeowners find they can save substantial amounts of money by applying some elbow grease.

In addition to saving their wallets, do-it-yourselfers are reviving two great old American traditions: self reliance and pride in workmanship.

COMMON SENSE

Many a home-improvement job can be safely done without a contractor. Often enough, all that's required is reading the instructions, common sense, care and patience.

Energy-saving appliances are helping to ease the energy squeeze in other areas besides home heating.

There's better insulation on refrigerators, and ovens nowadays, for instance, and many appliances have other power saving features as well.

And then, for the homeowner who's truly dedicated to saving energy, there are still other newfangled inventions.

Solar heating arrives in area

The first solar-research home in Tidewater was installed last year by Solar One, Ltd. The funding was from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Solar domestic hot water heaters were used in Texas, Arizona and California as far back as World War I. Many such type installations are in Florida as well.

Now many units are being installed in Tidewater.

Solar One Ltd. installed 16 solar domestic hot water systems for Hudgins Real Estate, on 67th Street and ocean front. This project was the first in the middle Atlantic States where a builder used solar domestic hot water systems as a standard feature in its homes.

Other home builders using Solar One Ltd. solar domestic hot water systems in new construction: Sir Galahad Construction Company, Yafa Corporation, Cernio Construction Corp. Inc., De Mille Homes, Number One Corporation, Energy Home Builders, Humphries Masonry, Lynnhaven Development Inc., Bannet Construction, Jacobson Construction and Edquist Construction.

Solar One Ltd. helped pioneer the first solar energy bill in the state of Virginia, and on March 31, 1977, the Virginia Solar Energy Act became law. It permits cities and counties to exempt solar energy equipment from real estate taxation, either totally or partially. But the equipment must first be certified by the Virginia Office of Housing as to its validity.

Close the door, you'll let the dark out

By Rhonda Nicoll
SUN Editor

A bottle of soy sauce and a small oriental bowl are the only non-photographic materials in Rod Mann's darkroom. Everything else is a photographer's dream. His darkroom is the kind of place where you think about where a scene should be and find that there is already one there.

Mann, co-ordinator of the Chesapeake POST/Virginia Beach SUN photography department recently won first place for his work as a whole in "Light Images '77", sponsored by the Friends of Photography.

Out of thousands of yet-to-be artistic creations, Mann chose a selection of rather straightforward negatives to print for the exhibit. His award, he feels, is the result of careful technical work and photos that are easy for people to identify with.

Back in the photo files are more abstract works that have an "element of mystery," but as photos become more abstract, Mann realizes that "you begin to winnow down your audience."

Fifteen years of photography and five years of full time professional work find Mann "still inspired" and always ready to see the "unending beauty of the experience of life."

The demands of daily work for the newspaper created a time, once, when Mann "almost died with my personal work." In processing and shooting photo/news features, he discovered worthwhile disciplines, the value of coming up with good usable photos, and the balance between professional and personal expression.

Now he divides his time between newspaper photo processing, private professional work (of which drama photography is his favorite) and a home and family on Knotts Island.

Art in the form of piano, guitar, musical appreciation, painting, drawing and sculpture passed through Mann's creative awareness, "but I was only flirting with them," he says.

He began to take photography seriously when he showed some photos to a friend who encouraged him to gear his talents toward a professional focus.

That was the beginning of the end of logging, farming, horse wrangling, school and other part time experiences that had their moment and faded away.

The time came to capture the essence of experiences through photography.

"A photograph is a transforming of experience, a translation of reality."

"I have always been excited about the experience of being on this planet. I always use all my senses, but I guess my visual sense ached out all the others."

Photography for Mann is a response phenomenon. "I don't pre-visualize and then try to create my idea. I respond to an experience and then work to transform it into photographic expression."

Formative years for Mann's photography were in San Francisco, where a close photographer/friend/teacher influenced him and helped him mature his work.

These days, he says, "I know what I'm after more and I keep up with what other photographers are doing."

Some of the most important responses to Mann's work comes from his artist/wife Carla. He, in turn, gives his perceptions on her work.

Teaching has added a new dimension to Mann's attitude toward his work.

"The freshness of the students started me thinking about my own work," he says.

Success With The Sun

It only took one day in the SUN Free-Bee ads for Mrs. Fred Stoenman, of 2424 Payne Road, Virginia Beach, to find a home for her two dogs.

"I think the Free-Bee ad section is great," she said. "Not only because the ads are free but because it's a section people will read since everything in them are free."

Mrs. Stoenman wanted to find a home for her collie and the collie's mother. She advertised in the September 28 issue of the SUN and as soon as the paper was out, she started getting responses. By the next afternoon, her dogs had homes. "I'm very happy with your paper," she said.

This is not the first time Mrs. Stoenman has had success with the SUN.

Last year as a circulation contest winner, she won $2,000.

Bid action delayed

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Monday afternoon the Virginia Beach City Council deferred for one week action on bids for the Laskin Road Waterline to allow the low bidder time to negotiate his contract price with the city.

Only two bids were received for the project for Section II in Lynnhaven and Virginia Beach Boroughs and both were considerably higher than the engineer's estimate of $508,156. City Manager George L. Hanbury, therefore, recommended that Council reject both bids and delay further bids indefinitely.

He said that contractors who had not submitted bids on the project said they had a substantial backlog of work and were not interested.

The deferral was granted at the request of A. Stanley Mundy, whose firm, A. Stanley Mundy & Company, submitted the low bid of $679,393. The other bid by Central Builders, Inc. was for $800,000.

Mundy told Council that "the bid seems high and may be high," but that the job was difficult. He said that the asphalt and concrete pavement has to be broken and replaced and three large deep cuts, six to seven feet below sea level, have to be made, and all should be done before summer when the traffic along the road is heavy. Mundy said that he would work with the engineers, Baldwin and Gregg, Ltd., in an effort to save some money. He added that he could get the job done quickly.

Hanbury said that the city has never had problems with work done by the Mundy firm and that every job has been "fine work." The price, however, is higher than he or the engineers could recommend.

Mundy said there are two instances where changes might be made to bring down the price.

Hanbury pointed out that in the past the city has tried to avoid negotiating prices.

Hanbury said that the main reason more bids are not received is that the city has so many projects that Virginia Beach contractors are loaded to the hilt.

P.A. shows strong at classic

The Lynchburg Classic - Parade of Champions - is billed as one of the strongest competitions held annually on the East Coast. The Classic is a parade and competitive marching event for championship bands who have earned their invitation by winning elsewhere. The bands in the competition have won many first place awards during the 1976-77 school year. In addition their members have won many other individual or special unit awards. Consequently we can expect America's most talented bands to be in this third annual Lynchburg Classic.

Our host, the Cavaliers from Princess Anne High School started their competitive year off at Lynchburg this year and did well for this being their first time on the field this year. Don Collins has put together the most complicated field show that I have ever seen for a high school marching unit. In the group from P.A. can get this show snatched out there will not be a band in the state that will stand a chance against them. Like many this was my first time seeing them on the field this year and I was very much impressed with their show. This year's contest at Lynchburg features outstanding line up of states starting with the Heritage High School's Marching Pioneer Band from Lynchburg, Va., Mauldin High School Band from Mauldin, S.C., Princess Anne High School's Marching Cavaliers from Virginia Beach, Va., Statesville High School's Marching Greasder Band from Statesville, N.C., George Washington High School's Marching Eagles from Danville, Va., Falls Church High School Band from Fairfax, Va. and the host and not competing E.C. Glass High School's Marching Hilltopper Band from Lynchburg, Va.

Yes, a very impressive line up of talent to put on any one field at the same time. All units did a superb job on the field and the host E.C. Glass even the not competing put on a show that is going to give the competition at Tidewater this coming weekend something to deal with. The time and place for the Tidewater's Marching Band Festival is Sat. Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. to be held at Indian River High School in Chesapeake.

The awards this year at the Lynchburg Classic went to the following: Best Drum Line, Heritage High School; Best Drum Major, Heritage High School; Best Major, George Washington High School; Best Featured Twirler, George Washington High School; Best Rifle Line, Heritage High School; Best Flag Line, Heritage High School; Best Brass Section, Falls Church High School; Best Woodwind Section, Statesville High School; Best in General Effects, Heritage High School; Best in Marching and Maneuvering, Falls Church High School.

The top three in over all appearance and performance were: First Place, Falls Church High School; Second Place, Heritage High School; Third Place, Princess Anne High School.

Neighbors don't love neighboring church

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

"Love thy neighbor" apparently means different things to different people.

To Guy P. Bordelon, a resident of Avalon Terrace, it means that the Norfolk Highlands Church of God should not hurt the residents of Avalon Terrace by becoming their neighbor.

Calvin Spain, attorney representing the Church, questions the implication that "love thy neighbor" stops at the city line.

The Church plans to locate its sanctuary on a 13.4 acre plot on Avalon Road and three weeks ago, Virginia Beach City Council granted the church a conditional use permit to make this possible.

Monday afternoon Councilman J. Henry McCoy, who made the original motion to approve the permit, introduced residents who opposed the permit. They did not have adequate time to prepare opposition at the permit hearing, they said.

Bordelon, spokesman for the civic league, said the church would create a traffic hazard on Avalon Road, a 60-foot right-of-way with deep ditches on either side. Avalon Terrace is close to Norfolk and Chesapeake, but its residents are citizens of Virginia Beach, he said, while members of the church are from Chesapeake. "Love thy neighbor means don't hurt him," he added, and asked Council to reconsider its previous action and deny the permit.

He charged that in presenting its request for a permit, the church was guilty of omissions. He had been told that the church of approximately 40 members was considering establishing a day care center on the site along with its sanctuary. It was going to be the year-round commercial type, he said, and that after the necessary land was used for a church the remaining land would be subdivided for homes as a church investment.

Bordelon presented council with a petition with 160 signatures, noting that most of the people "don't object to a church but what goes with it."

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the church made no specific request for a day care center and that it would not be permitted to operate one without another conditional use permit from the city.

McCoy had approved the permit, he said, because he preferred a church to more houses. The land is zoned R-5 and R-6 which allows for single-family homes on one-fourth acre sites.

Answering another objection of the residents, Hanbury said the church was required to hook up to city utilities and would not be permitted to function with the septic tank now located on the property.

Robert Ramsey said that before council issued the permit it should have made a commitment to upgrade the road.

Ashley Maye, pastor of the Asales Church of God, Norfolk, and district overseer of Church of God, said that some of his church members live in Virginia Beach and that some of the Norfolk Highlands Church of God congregation come from Virginia Beach. He said that while some of the acreage may be in wetlands and unsuitable, five acres are in good shape for use.

Spain said that the pastor of the church did answer a question by saying that some day the church may have a day care center, but the church generally has made a commitment to the community as well as a commitment to a church by making a financial sacrifice to purchase the land.

The Rev. Maye said that the congregation has already changed its name to Avalon Church of God.

He asked that no motion be made to reconsider. None was.

Frisbee-ist, frisbe-er?

James Zambelli of 8104 Lockwood Lane is a champion frisbee-ist? Frisbee-er? Well, Frisbee thrower.

He recently became first runner-up in the 1977 World Junior Frisbee Championships at Six Flags over Georgia in which entries from the United States and Canada participated.

As a prize, he was awarded a $500 U. S. Savings Scholarship Bond which was presented at Monday afternoon's meeting of the Virginia Beach City Council. Mayor Clarence A. Holland made the presentation and a commendation.

But winner or not, Zambelli had better not display his skill on the beachfront and boardwalk next summer. Council recently outlawed frisbee throwing during the summer season along the most congested part of the beach strip.

Rally at the Cavalier

The Full Gospel Businessman Fellowship International will hold a rally, October 14 and 15 at the New Cavalier Oceanfront Hotel, 42nd Street and Atlantic Avenue.

The rally will consist of four major meetings. Friday, October 14, at 7 p.m. singer Roger Wiles, a frequent performer of the 100 Club, will perform. Saturday at 9 a.m. there will be a Military Breakfast with speaker Marine Col. Charles Thompson. Saturday at 1:30 p.m., John Gilman, of the Christian Broadcasting Network, will be host to a Minister's Layman Luncheon. Saturday evening at 7 p.m. pastor-teacher-evangelist Jim Sanders, will speak.

The rally is open to the public. Contact 464-8774 or 499-0697 for reservations and information.

A lot of controversy

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Owners of two oceanfront lots at 58th Street now have the clearance to build a duplex on each of the lots.

It wasn't easy. On Aug. 9 the planning commission approved rezoning the parcel from R-1 Hotel District to R-8 Residential District. Last week Virginia Beach City Council concurred. On Aug. 9, the planning commission also granted a variance which allowed the petitioner E. A. Smith to move the property line between the two lots to create two more equal-sized lots and at the same time to permit smaller than minimum lot size.

The variance came into effect when Council approved the rezoning application last week. The lots are approximately between 5,700 and 7,000 square feet. R-8 zoning requires 10,000 square foot lots.

The Mariner Hotel, just south of the parcel, represented by Grover Wright, opposed the variance. Wright said that the variance procedure is the only time the planning commission takes final action. In other matters the commission merely recommends. He added that in 1976 the Attorney General of Virginia ruled that the variance procedure shall not be enacted within a zoning ordinance as it is in Virginia Beach. Wright appealed to council to reverse the action of the planning commission.

Attorney Thomas Broyles, who is one of the owners of the parcel, said that the marina has cabanas which encroach on the parcel by nine feet and that "the only reason they wanted council to reverse the commission's action and have the parcel considered as one lot was because they don't want to get off of property they readily admit they don't own."

Attorney Owen Pickett, representing Smith, said that the parcel is subdivided into two lots now and that all the petitioner sought was a relocation of the lot line. Without the variance, Smith is not interested in R-8 zoning but would want the A-1 zoning back.

Broyles asked, "Confirm the zoning and let him (Wright) take it to court. Otherwise the property would depreciate in value," he noted. He added that the residents of North Virginia Beach are not opposing the variance. Council upheld the action of the planning commission by a vote of 4-2. Voting against the motion were George R. Farrell and Meyera Oberdorff. Vice Mayor Patrick Standing was absent.

DISCOVER A NEW WORLD OF THE SPIRIT THROUGH FAITH
Like Christopher Columbus, each of us must embark upon the perilous voyage of life, fraught with uncertainty of direction or purpose; sometimes tossed by storms, often becalmed to a standstill. But, like the adventurer of old, we can be guided to the attainment of a goal far superior for which we had originally set sail; if faith be the rudder that keeps our ship of life on its true course despite wind and wave. Let your Church be the port of embarkation for your own voyage to the joyful discovery of a new way of life through faith.

Henry Howell, fiscal conservative

In this period of unprecedented prosperity, we are haunted with that shopworn Dickens paradox: It is the best of times, it is the worst of times. The famous old proverb is dusted off and used one more time because it is the consummate description of the situation.

Amidst all the affluence, the times are tough and the taxpayers rebellious. A groundswell is running against the costs and inefficiencies of big government and the big utilities operating under government regulation.

Distrust and Resentment

Behind us is a tumultuous period of public distrust, taxpayer resentment and political posturing. Before us is the election of Virginia's next governor.

This campaign might be decided on the pocket-book issues: government spending, tax increases, the cost of living. Both candidates, John Dalton and Henry Howell, have a healthy respect for the taxpayer's dollar. But for Howell, the paradox continues. Many consider him a wild, reckless spender. The opposite is true.

Howell is blunt and to the point, telling everyone who asks (and many who don't), "I am a fiscal conservative who believes in living within his means, and I am the only man running who has promised to veto any general tax increase passed during the next four years."

No General Tax Increase

In a lengthy interview with the Norfolk newspapers, Howell was asked if a catastrophe occurred, how could the state get more money without a general tax increase.

Howell said he would find the solution through the House of Delegates "because you don't have to raise taxes." He explained his "get along on what we have" budget theory to the Norfolk reporters:

"There are people today whose automobile insurance and homeowners policies and electric light bills are being raised and they can't come down to Norfolk newspapers and say, 'Raise my pay.' So they get along somehow on the pay they have."

Live Within Means

Many political writers and legislators speak of budget restrictions, but like Saint Augustine on the subject of chastity, "not now." Henry Howell says Virginia will live within its means, "and now."

ON FISCAL MANAGEMENT, he says: "I have always insisted on careful management in my private business and as a public official, and I will rely on that record to bring tough, careful management to state government."

ON THE BUDGET: "It is important that the state's budget be balanced IN ADVANCE. In the past two years, this did not occur."

ON SPENDING SCHEMES: "I know the value of a dollar, how long it takes to earn one, and how quickly some people can spend it on harebrained schemes and ideas."

ON TAX LOOPHOLES: "I propose the closing of certain unfair tax loopholes benefiting the super rich. Anybody who is serious about holding the line on taxes must be serious about closing such unfair tax loopholes."

Labels Are Deceptive

Any attempt to write off Howell as a reckless spender won't wash. Labels are deceptive. After a quarter of a century of fighting the big spending giants, he has found enemies among liberals, conservatives, moderates and progressives. According to the Howell philosophy, "What people call you isn't nearly as important as the record you earn."

Howell's record shows him to be a liberal on social and humanitarian issues, particularly those involving underdogs, but a tough, efficiency-minded fiscal conservative on issues involving management and budgeting.

Disappointed in Meany

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

I was disappointed that the State Department's efforts were George Meany's annual ratification of the proposed Panama Canal treaty. This does not mean that members of his AFL-CIO union feel the same way. Quite the contrary!

It was heartening to listen to the testimony of Alfred Graham, President of the Canal Zone Central Labor Union who testified before the House International Relations Committee, Sept. 20, saying: "Frank Meany does not speak for the affiliated local unions of the CIO-MTC when he supports this Treaty...President Carter's Treaty Signing Ceremony...set democracy in Latin America back 100 years."

Panama has a Communist law which prohibits U.S. citizens. It states that those living on the isthmus are Panamanians. Americans disagree; they serve in the U.S. Armed Forces; pay U.S. income taxes, etc. The State Department says they are right, but does nothing about it. How shocking that our own administration won't even back its own American citizens preferring, instead, to support Communist dictator Omar Torrijos and his henchmen.

Another eyeopener is the neutrality treaty. It states that if an ally discovers an enemy ship carrying explosives through our Canal it should not launch an attack. If she should do so, our armed forces are required to fight our ally and encourage the transit of war material that will be used against us. What insanity! Really, only bankrupt, unworkable ideas have been the product of the 1974 Tick-Kissinger "Agreement lacking Principle."

Our Vote

Dear Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

Bill Phillips is a candidate for the Treasurer of Virginia Beach. He is the only one that is fully qualified for the office. He studied Business Administration at the College of William and Mary (Norfolk Division), is an accountant, was commissioner of revenue from January 1959 until merger, and served Virginia Beach City for 15 years.

Mr. Phillips is honest, a family man, a real gentleman. His integrity may be counted on. He will do a great job and see that everyone pays his fair share of taxes, not just the middle income citizens but the wealthy ones as well.

Mr. Phillips is the man I will trust to invest our city's money how about you? Won't you consider Mr. Phillips on November 8.

Qualified candidate

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

Please consider the importance of the upcoming election for Governor, Lt. Gov., Attorney General and House of Delegates. The men elected this year will affect many important areas of Virginia's lives for many years to come.

I personally am distressed by the apathy of the average citizen who fails to vote. I hear the constant time and again of how disastrous one becomes of politics because of the scandals in both parties. Has it ever occurred to you that instead of being turned off that this is the time to become tuned in? Your help is needed with whatever talents you have - time, contributions or at least cast a vote!

I remember being fearful when the 18 year olds were given the right to vote. At this particular time there was such a radical movement against the way in which the Viet Nam War was being conducted. My after thought on this matter is why was this war pro-longed at the expense of young lives? Who benefited financially from this fruitless effort? Many of the radicals were wrong in the manner in which they protested but in their own way they were saying what Gen. Douglas MacArthur said about the Korean War, "Either conduct the battle to win or get out." As we know "That old soldier faded away" but he courageously stood up to the President of the United States before he faded from view.

We can learn from past errors in judgement. Not only in the officials elected to office but we must continue to try to upgrade the American political system. How is that going to happen? Certainly not by becoming a dropout. The very people that are withdrawing and giving up are the people needed the most to continue the battle for good, honest, decent representatives. There are "Honest Politicians" and we need to support them regardless of party affiliations.

Only the voter has the power to select the representatives that in turn decides how the voter's money is to be spent; the power to elect the one individual that makes the laws that affect your life and that of your children. These representatives in turn appoint the judges, they in recent years have jailed persons for minor crimes and released major criminal offenders. The real lawless criminal then returns to the main stream of society to recommit crimes and offenses to the hard-working, law abiding, innocent and fearful citizens. Remember! The appointment of the judges is a life time position. It is often an appointment exchanged for political, behind closed doors favors.

So, how important is one individual vote? The people that bother to cast a vote in each individual election are either the dedicated citizens or those who have an ulterior motive for their own personal gain and benefits. Which of these two examples seem to wield the most power at this time in the history of America?

We cannot control the United States of America with a vote on November 8, but we can begin to control the direction in which the state of Virginia is to grow. Yes, you as an individual wield a lot of power. It is a power that no one can deny you if you are a registered voter of Virginia. May I suggest that you also have a responsibility to make an effort to listen to both sides of the issue so that you may vote intelligently. If a man or woman is elected to public office as a representative of "You, the individual voter who cares enough to take the time to register an opinion to the best of your ability" then that elected representative must represent the majority of citizen's wishes or else, "You, the individual voter, has the power to replace that man or woman who fails to fulfill campaign promises." The campaign promises that I listen for are the positive promises. I want a representative that has leadership qualities and the ability to offer practical solutions to realistic everyday problems. I do not care to waste my precious vote on a representative who presents criticism and a negative outlook unless he can offer a solution.

Painting the Beach

... with Eric Stevens

Bill Ross plays the soft-loud. Well, that's what "pianoforte" means in English. Of course we have shortened it to simply "piano." But unlike many keyboard players, Bill uses his full range of expression, "piano" to "forte"...from a whisper to a shout. He also uses all 88 keys. I caught him finishing up a long run at "That Sealfood Place" on the 6th floor of the Holiday Inn at 38th and the Ocean. And I mean OCEAN. I sat but 4 feet from the full-length window that afforded me a mind-blowing view of the breakers, illuminated not only by spotlights, but on this night by a harvest moon.

For a triple-Scorpio it was one of life's ultimates. But another 4 feet away was a musical experience that paralleled those waves. When Bill Ross plays...or sings...you'll find an ever-changing, but always delightful Smorgasbord.

He ranged from "Rhapsody in Blue" to "Am I Blue" to a real blues, "After Hours" (Avery Parrish-Erskine Hawkins); from the waltz "Jean, Jean" to a swinging "April in Paris" to a contemporary "This Guy's In Love." He'll answer requests for country tunes, too. Seldom did he call for aid from his electronic-rhythmmer, which most soloists rely on these days.

Ross utilizes his harmonic knowledge to evoke a full sound from a much sparer. Two persons can play the same song with almost entirely different chords underlying the identical melody - one of the subtle but rich values in music. And if they use the same chords, they could "voice them" differently (most chords have 4 or 5 different notes, but the player has 10 fingers with which to duplicate some of them, and the manner in which he distributes these is called "voicing.")

Ross often plays with a trio, and he prefers emotional players, of varied ages. The drummer should be young (for vitality), and the bassist old enough to know the countless songs that have become standards in the half-century since radio became prominent.

Usually that bassist is Bill Gibson, who has been described by local music-mastodon Bob Sawyer as having "four hands, each with eight fingers ten inches long."

I asked Ross who his favorite singers and pianists were, and the cheerful Libran replied, "No one in particular." This is apparent in his performing, for he is an individual, not an imitator. When he sang and played "Misty" for us, we did not hear Rexell Carter. We did not hear Johnny Mathis. We heard Bill Ross.

Bill began piano lessons at age six. By his mid-teens he was working Main Street for $2 a week. Later, he majored in music at Knoxville College. He once came to Richmond for a concert, only to discover that the sheet music was still in Norfolk. If that wasn't enough, he stumbled while stepping onto the stage, but managed to get through the performance without an error.

With local saxman Gene Barge, Bill recorded on the Chess label in Chicago songs such as "Down Home" and "Comin' In."

In the 1950's the traveling "Scene" was no rose-garden. Much of his playing had to be done standing up, in leaping with the fad of the time. He played shows with Bo Diddley and Ruth Brown (who left Portsmouth to achieve stardom).

Bill played on WTAR-TV during its first week. When the Sheraton Beach Hotel brought in Charlie Ventura, Jimmy McFarland, and Buddy Tate a few years back, Ross was at the keys.

As I left the restaurant, someone requested "As Time Goes By" and realized that when Warner Brothers chose Dooley Wilson for the famed "play it again, Sam" role in "Casablanca," they'd have done just as well to have chosen Bill Ross. As I entered the elevator with the distant strains in the background, I could see Humphrey Bogart in his fedora and trenchcoat...plane warning up in the background...face twitching, as he promised to meet Ingrid Bergman after the war.

"I remembered Ross saying that he liked emotional players; I guess he meant the kind that can project vivid memories."

Amen begins where prayers left off

God opened in Tidewater this week in a place most of us would never think to Don Brockett's "Amen, Amen" laughs at.

No religion is left out. Baptist, Presbyterian, Catholic, Jewish and even Buddhist get the punches. But the company emphasizes the "we're in this together" attitude, making everyone in for the same treatment. "An Episcopalian is a Catholic who votes Republican," pipes one member of the cast.

It's not sacrilegious. It's not a put down. Instead it's a spoof on man and his religious attitudes and habits. It's ourselves that

Clad in blue jeans and tee shirts, the company consists of an energetic lot who work hard to pull the show off. At times they do and the result is hilarious.

Marcie Goldberg, of Virginia Beach, steals the show. In the "Mr. and Mrs. Noah" sketch, she depicts the stereotypical Jewish wife, telling her husband how to build the ark. "But it needs a rudder, Noah," she says.

Goldberg's comic timing and bubbling personality gives life to every character she portrays. She makes the perfect "Teen Angel," fluttering around the stage with a sliding halo and heavenly look. Her Virgin Mary is memorable. "Joseph," she whines, "I want a pickle."

An elementary school adaptation of the Christmas story, "No Room in the Inn," is "Amen, Amen" at its best. Joseph wears horn rimmed glasses slung over one eye. A wise man's crown refuses to stay put. And no one can figure out what swaddling clothes are.

At times, the production stretches the point and hence falls short. A procession of "religious commercials" are superficial and corny. "Let your fingers do the walking through the rosary beads." Or, "our pews, they hold you," they hug you, they hold you. Or still worse "When you've said God wiser, you've said it best."

But, there are also moments of reverence in "Amen, Amen." A duet of "Ave Maria" and "Let It Be," sung by Julie Johnson and Doug Waldo, is superb. "Pater Noster (The Lord's Prayer)" is especially poignant as dancer Laura Aho Parsons interprets in sign language.

It's religion, all right. The sentimental as well as the humorous. The pros, the cons. The trite and the novel. "Amen, Amen" has managed in its expertise as well as its inexperience, to convey man and his religion in a laughably, modern way.

Contemp art

The Virginia Beach Arts Center will present an exhibit on contemporary art by four artists from Finland for its October show. The display will go on view October 4 and continue through October 27. Included are two painters, Veikko Takala and Pentti Uusikylä, and two printmakers, Tapio Halli and Armas Hursti. The printers incorporate many materials in their work, so that the pieces might well be called assemblages. Halli is master of the color woodcut and Hursti is a gifted etcher.

Virginia Beach Arts Center hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and 1-5 p.m. on Sunday; the Center is located on 18th Street and Arctic Avenue.

Single-family homes for young

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The City Council of Virginia Beach is considering three ordinances which would permit zero lot line construction for single-family detached houses.

Zero lot line construction permits homes to be placed directly at the lot line on one side, allowing all the side yard area to be combined on the other side. The wall facing the adjoining lot is generally designed without windows overlooking the residence on the adjoining lot. The purpose of this type of construction is to permit single-family homes on smaller lots.

Monday afternoon, council deferred, for two weeks, action on the three ordinances for further study and review.

One ordinance provides that a side yard lot line for a single-family detached house from which the setback may be less than that required by the applicable district and may be reduced to zero.

The second states that zero side yard setback lines may be designated for a lot in any zoning district which allows it, provided that the requirements accompanying such a line shall apply to only one of the lots to which it is common. A lot may have only one zero side yard setback line pertain to it. (At present there are requirements for setbacks on both sides.)

The third ordinance establishes an R-10 Residential District to allow zero lot line construction as the principal use. The district is similar to A-1 Apartment District except that multiple family dwellings are not permitted.

Realtor George Ayers said that zero lot line construction is one of the advances in more progressive communities to hold down costs.

He said that the American dream is still the ownership of a single-family home and zero lot line homes on 5,000 square foot lots may be the answer. He pointed out that in Quail Run, an R-3 zoned district (for duplexes), which has been successful in 72 percent of the cases, it takes two incomes to purchase a home. The zero lot line home is a compromise between the townhouse and a single-family home.

He asked council to pass the ordinances for the benefit of young people who want single-family detached homes but can't afford them.

The ordinances will be placed on the informal agenda for discussion prior to consideration at the formal meeting on Oct. 24.

An October Country Fair

St. Aidan's Episcopal Church in King's Grant held its annual Country Fair, Saturday, October 8 from 9-4. The treasures and contributions of over 125 families were displayed under a giant tent and throughout the church grounds. Plant booths, wooden, hand-sewn and Christmas crafts, clothes, attic treasures, furniture, appliances, books, and baked goods were available. But the biggest attraction was the Oyster Bar, where raw oysters were shucked and cooked.

The traditional Oyster Bar was the highlight of the Fair.

Everyone showed up at the St. Aidan's Country Fair to see what treasures could be found.

Maggie Demchuk, of New Cattle Road, invites one and all to sample the good cooking of the St. Aidan ladies.

A free ride for senior citizens

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is happy to announce that transportation for senior citizens to the Virginia Beach Recreation Center is now available. This service will begin October 3rd with the two pick up points being Pembroke Mall (entrance by water fountain) and Princess Anne Plaza (in front of Rice's) on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The bus will arrive at 10:30 A.M. and return at approximately 3 P.M. The daily program for senior citizens includes bowling, shuffleboard, crafts, swimming, trips, pot luck luncheons, and much more.

For information concerning this transportation service call the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation Senior Citizen line at 467-4316.

The many faces of Sandy

By JOAN COATES
SUN Staff Writer

It's hard to tell who Sandy Canada really is. Candidate's wife, homemaker, reformer, promoter, teacher, sports buff, stepmother, wife. Will the real Sandy Canada please stand up? How anybody can find the time for one role is a query to some but that Sandy Canada can do so much is anybody's guess.

Sandy is the wife to A. Joseph Canada, Virginia Lieutenant Governor hopeful. She doesn't feel she's the "woman behind the man," she said. "He's the senator and I'm enjoying what I'm doing."

What Sandy does is campaign six days a week, traveling around Virginia visiting small towns. While there she conducts open door meetings, visits rescue squads and speaks for her husband when he is not able to be there. She said she's visited around 70 towns beginning last summer, sitting about three or four a day.

Speech making doesn't come easy to Sandy. "If someone had told me a year ago I'd be making speeches, I would have fainted," she said. "When Joe and I were married I said 'no speeches.'"

But Sandy believes in positive thinking and after giving herself a giant pep talk, she became convinced she could do it. "I still get butterflies," she added, "but it gets easier. I've got a lot to talk about - Joe's qualifications." Not only does Sandy talk about her husband on her travels, but she gets to promote her special interest - emergency medical services, especially cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). According to Sandy, "Virginia spends an unbelievably low amount on emergency services. In Virginia Beach, we have good service, but in the rural counties we have only the basics."

Trained in CPR, a technique to revive heart failure, Sandy has worked with the local King's Daughters for nine years as a volunteer. The group has been able to donate some type of unit to the Virginia Beach hospital for the last five years.

She sees her role in CPR to expand if her husband is elected. "I hope to continue to promote CPR," she said.

Sandy emphasized that brain damage would start as fast as four minutes after the heart stops. "Someone in the family or on the block should know how to do it," she said. "It's a very easy thing to learn. Women have come up to me and said my husband had a heart attack. If I had only known what to do."

As in CPR, in most instances Sandy and Joe see eye to eye. Philosophically, that is.

"We pretty much agree," Sandy said. "Sometimes, you don't understand why a person votes a certain way. You're not there and don't understand (amendments, etc.) We talk," she added. "I trust his judgement. I respect him and look up to him."

Lynnhaven to link Beach and Chesapeake

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Lynnhaven Parkway in Virginia Beach will connect with Volvo Parkway in Chesapeake under a revision of the Master Street and Highway Plan slated for Virginia Beach.

Monday afternoon Virginia Beach City Council approved a realignment of the proposed Lynnhaven Parkway west to the Chesapeake city line to establish an alignment which would provide for the ultimate extension to Volvo Parkway in Chesapeake.

Under the present plan, Lynnhaven Parkway extends from the proposed False Cape Parkway (Princess Anne Road), follows a section of Recreation Drive, intersects Kemperville and loops around College Park.

City Manager George L. Hanbury, at an informal session of council, said that the road, which now terminates at Princess Anne Road, will connect Greenbrier Industrial Park in Chesapeake with the Lynnhaven and Ocean West Industrial Parks in Virginia Beach. It will also give the Beach another tie (in addition to Indian River Road) to Interstate 64. The plan may lead to spur the federal government to provide some funds for the project, Hanbury said. Chesapeake has not extended Volvo Parkway yet. Hanbury said that the Beach may have to build its portion first.

Cox

Opponents - Kempville

Place - Kempville

Offense - In last week's game against First Colonial Coach Al Habit says Cox, "had a good game, they had us 10 to 6 until the last play of the third quarter, it was a good tight game until then. They scored on that play, then they got a couple of interceptions and scored twice in the last three minutes of the game. We started playing 'catch-up' and throwing the ball. They have a good team and we made too many mistakes. When you make mistakes against a good team they score. We had six turnovers, five interceptions, and one fumble, you just can't do that and expect to win. Some of the outstanding offensive team members who had a good game were: Split end Reggie Garrett, who gained 107 yards on passes, Tailback Willie Stead gained 115 yards rushing and Jim Hayden completed 9 passes.

Defense - Coach Habit speaking of the defense says, "We played well in spurts, we had a couple of breakdowns. It was one of those games where we hurt ourselves more than they hurt us. The score really wasn't indicative of the game, it was a good tough game, we just made too many mistakes."

Key to victory - Coach Habit says, "We have to eliminate the turnovers. Kempville has been pretty tough on defense. We have to get more consistent in our offensive running. We have had problems with injuries, three of our starters have been injured and that has hurt our running game, we need to strengthen it. We are 4 & 2 now, we have the potential to beat anyone left on the schedule, I think we can still have a good year."

Kempville

Opponents - Cox

Place - Kempville

Offense - Head Coach Ed Booth, speaking about last week's game against Maury says, "We had for the first time this season when we went ahead 7 to 6 in the third quarter, then we coughed up the ball and they took it away to win 18 to 7. Our offensive line has improved, but it still needs to improve even more. We had a total offensive game of 165 yards, that won't win. We are plagued by mistakes. We've had more fumbles and interceptions this year than in the past three years put together. I guess the only consolation is that most of the team will be coming back next year, we have very few seniors this year."

Defense - According to Coach Booth, "Alvin Biddle did his usual good job, but we had some breakdowns and missed a few tackles, it's got to improve."

Key to victory - Coach Booth says, "We have got to stop fumbling, missing passes and throwing interceptions. We also have to improve our blocking."

Olympia '76

Jumping gymnastics, they're winners

by MARK GROVES
SUN Sports Editor

An idea that got started a little over a year ago recently resulted in victory for a Chesapeake gymnastics school taking first in the all around beginner's gymnastics competition at the Neptune Festival in Virginia Beach. Linda Evans started 'Olympia 76' in July of 1976 because her daughter Cindy was interested in gymnastics and because she had recently lost her job at the draft board when it shut down.

Mrs. Evans says they actually really got going well in September of '76 and started entering girls in competitions in December of '76. They have had members place in every competition they have participated in since then. According to Mrs. Evans, "Gymnastics is not nearly as popular in Chesapeake as it is in Virginia Beach. All of the High Schools in Virginia Beach have gymnastic programs and Chesapeake is just starting them. There are many more gym schools in Virginia Beach. As a matter of fact, 'Olympia 76' is the only gymnastic school in Chesapeake."

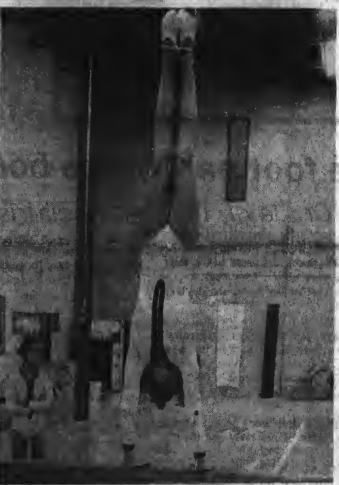

The school is located in one of the large new buildings just off Military highway in the Greenbrier area Mrs. Evans continues, "When I first decided to establish a school out here, I was told that this was going to be a bad location, but I just felt like the beach was already saturated with schools. I live out in this area, my daughter goes to school out here and I just felt like this was going to be a good location. As time goes on and the area builds up even more it will get even better."

Mrs. Evans doesn't teach the classes herself. She hires teachers to come in and she handles the administrative details. "Patricia Merrill, the coach of our team that won in the Neptune Festival, is a graduate of Longwood college where she majored in gymnastics and dance. She is also a coach at Cox High School. The proof as to how good our staff is shows in the fact that we won."

What about the popularity of the sport? Does Mrs. Evans think that is going to increase? "I hope so. I think once the schools start it that more people will become interested and the popularity in Chesapeake is going to pick up. That's one of the reasons that we are trying to build a reputation by winning competitions such as the Neptune Festival."

The girls that won in all-around competition at the festival are in the 10-11 age group. Suzanne Rapcavage took fourth and Kim Storms took sixth place. In the 12-14 age group Cindy Evans took first, Penny Nicholson took second, Cindy Deal took third and Kim King took sixth. In the 15-16 competition, Sonya Willis was first and Sharon Everton took second.

Besides winning the all-around competition, they had 28 girls win other ribbons.

By ANDY ROSS, WHOR Sportsman

This is Andy Ross writing about sports. Today I'll try to explain and justify my predictions for the American Football Conference West division. I shall deal with all of the teams involved, however, I shall isolate only one of the winners (obviously) and the losers (obviously) and the teams in between.

Andy Ross on sports

As a matter of fact, the only adjective to properly describe the Raider offensive and defensive units is awesome. Also, all twenty-two starters from last year's championship squad are back once again to make matters worse for the would-be opposition.

Oakland is solid offensively. Ken Stabler is one of the three premier quarterbacks in football - and he can do it all and more. Few quarterbacks enjoy the corps of receivers Stabler has. Dave Casper, Cliff Branch, and Fred Biletnikoff caught 142 passes and 29 touchdowns between them. Mike Sims and Ted Kwalick are more than adequate substitutes.

For running backs the Raiders have a good, though not outstanding, group: Mark van Eeghen, Clarence Davis, and Dave Dalby and it's no wonder Oakland can score points.

The defense can be described as better than adequate, consistent, aggressive, virtuous, and sometimes dirty - but it gets the job done. Oakland will remain with its 3-4 (or Orange) alignment and it allows for greater flexibility and more advantageous use of available depth. The corps of linebackers - Willie Hall, Phil Villapiano, Monte Johnson, and Ted Hendricks - rank with the best and so does the secondary.

The only possible change (barring injury) is Neal Calais for Willie Brown (now entering his 16th season). On any given Sunday a good Coach Chuck Knox has led the Los Angeles Rams to four division titles in his first four years, and no other coach can make that claim. The Rams have not made it into the Super Bowl during those four years - and they should have at least three times.

The reasons for the success-failure dichotomy include internal problems (some bordering on racism), high level meddling and interference into the coaching by ownership, lack of war egos, a conservative and unbalanced offensive attack, and a lack of quarterback stability.

All of these problems remain - and new ones have arisen - yet the Rams win every year and will do so once again in 1977 (although not as prolific as in previous years).

The running backs may be the single best group anywhere in the NFL: Lawrence McCutcheon, John Cappelletti, Jim Bertelsen, Rod Phillips, Rob Scribner, and Cullen Bryant (also the best kick returner in football) - and Los Angeles loses nothing when the so-called "second string" is in there. But with running featuring the offense, the line has become attuned to that special kind of blocking, and with Joe Namath's knee problems pass blocking becomes very important. Pat Haden is the future quarterback for the Rams and he is good enough to play now. The line features all-pro standby Tom Mack and experienced regulars like John Williams, Rich Saul, Doug France and Dennis Harrah. There are good substitutes as well.

On defense - for so long the strong point - how can the Rams replace 15-year all-pro Merlin Olsen? The answer is that they cannot! Jack Youngblood, Fred Dryer, and Larry Brooks are very good and there are some good young players to help keep the front four solid. The deep secondary is awesome with Dave Edmunds, Bill Simpson, Monte Jackson, and Rod Parry. At linebacking, the Rams have Jim Youngblood and Isiah Robertson - but Jack Reynolds has absented himself because of money and personality problems. He will be almost impossible to replace. Replacement depth adds to the problem.

The Rams will score once if the offense accepts the forward pass as a legitimate weapon and learns to play together as a unit. The defense will allow more points than in previous seasons but it, too, will develop into a solid unit.

Without kicking or good special teams, Los Angeles may lose some close games - something, for example, the Oakland Raiders never do; but a favorable schedule helps. Maybe this year they will finally make the Super Bowl.

Next week I'll attempt to justify my picks in the National Football Conference. Since your opinion probably doesn't agree with mine, call me on WHOR's Sportsman show, Monday through Friday, 6:05 - 7 p.m. and let's talk about it.

Soccer Squad

John E. Irwin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen F. Irwin of Chesapeake, is a member of the 1977 Virginia Wesleyan College soccer squad. The 170 lb. freshman is playing the position of forward for the 1976 Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champions. Irwin is a 1977 graduate of Portsmouth Catholic High School. The Blue Marlin's currently are 5-1 overall and 4-0 in conference play. The only loss has been a 1-0 overtime defeat at the hands of Washington and Lee on September 18.

Virginia Wesleyan College is a four-year college of liberal arts and sciences located on 300 acres astride the Virginia Beach-Norfolk line.

Grant to child center low

SUN Public Affairs Writer

The grant award for the Peninsula Child Service Center was lower than anticipated, forcing Virginia Beach City Council to decrease the operating budget for the center from $448,116 to $224,947.

The State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has awarded a grant of $284,947 for the project where the city had previously budgeted $448,116. It was also necessary to reduce Personnel's estimated revenue from other agencies and from fees by $98,494 from $388,351 to $289,857.

Virginia Beach, which operates the facility with the City of Chesapeake, will continue to contribute matching funds of $25,000. Chesapeake contributes matching funds also.

The length of time an animal may be held by the Bureau of Animal Control before being given up for adoption or euthanized has been reduced from seven to five days.

Virginia Beach City Council Monday approved an ordinance making the change to conform with recent amendments to state law.

Lively rally

A special week of evangelistic services, Bible study, and Gospel music will be held at First Colonial Baptist Church each night at 7:30 p.m. beginning Monday night, October 17th.

The evangelistic thrust and praise services will be led by the Rev. Chester Miller, Pastor, Second Baptist Church of West Plains, Missouri.

First Colonial Baptist Church is located at 329 First Colonial Road, Va. Beach.

Fall Fair at Tabernacle Methodist

A fall fair will be held on the lawn of Tabernacle United Methodist Church, at 1255 Sandridge Road, Virginia Beach, Saturday, October 15 from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Rain date is October 22.

Antiques, attic treasures, a country store and kitchen, a wishing well and rummage sale will be part of the fair. Clowns with free balloons and pony rides and games will be there also.

The fair is for the benefit of the church preservation fund.

New Arby's

Goodman Segar Hogan, Inc., Norfolk-based realty firm, has announced a sale of 1764-1768 Laskin Road in the Hilltop section of Virginia Beach to Arby's of Tidewater.

The 25,000 square foot parcel, which contains two small office buildings, was purchased from Virginia Beach architect John S. Waller.

Person is the perpetual performer. At Farm Fresh, he holds a group fascinated with his unusual ability.

Person, who lives in Farm Fresh, set up shop Saturday at the Farm Fresh on Lynnhaven Blvd. to sell and display his art.

People were fascinated by the man who carves carrots. "You're buying history," he claimed. The perpetual performer, Person loves his audiences and is eager to take requests. He was working on a submarine Saturday and had promised to start Tuesday Bird next. "This is a disco carrot," he said of one figure.

According to Person, it usually takes three carrots to carve a figure. He holds them together with toothpicks and preserves them in water. They last three weeks to a month stored in a refrigerator, he said.

Person started his carrot carving three years ago as a cook in the Navy. He began by making roses for decoration and soon progressed into figures and objects. Colleagues began calling him "the Carrot Carver," he said, and a new personality began to take shape.

Employed as a chef at the Omni in Norfolk, Person hopes to eventually operate the carrot business fulltime. "The Carrot Carver" has a lot of imagination," Person said. "He likes being a superman."

The foot part of the body?

by Dr. Jay I. Tischler, Podiatrist

Many people speak to me about their feet in a way that makes it seem that the feet are accessory parts of the body, not unlike the extras on an automobile. They feel that the feet have no effect on the rest of the body, and the body has no real effect on the feet.

Patients who come to me with a corn or callus are surprised when I ask, "Have you any lower back pain?" Often the answer is, "I sure have, but what does that have to do with my corns?"

Every once in a while a patient will resent being asked details of his general health. "It's just my feet that are bothering me."

It should be understood that a deficiency in one part of the body will affect other parts of the body and the feet are part of the body!

All parts of your body are supplied by the blood of one circulatory system, by the interplay of one muscular system and by the innervation of one neurological system.

Your feet are a true engineering marvel. If you take care of it, it can be compared to a finely-tuned race car or even a space capsule in that its function dictates its design and structure. And like them, the human foot is complicated, containing within its relatively small size 26 bones and a network of ligaments, muscles and blood vessels. They carry the weight of your entire body. They help to hold your body in a stationary upright position. They coordinate to maintain your body's balance as you walk and they have the precision that permits you to leave the ground completely and return in an upright position as you jump.

The ability to stand, to walk, to run, to dance, to skate, and to perform the other activities in which we participate, without giving thought to how they are accomplished, depends on many factors. The bones, ligaments joints and muscles all interact to control the feet.

Both muscle and bone have a blood supply, which is the source of their nourishment. Since your feet are part of your body, they are subject to circulatory problems that might occur in other parts of your body.

An arterial block or hardening of the arteries, for example may result in insufficient blood reaching the legs and the feet. The lower extremities, the foot and the leg, are the areas most frequently involved in poor circulation and consequent therapy as dramatic as amputation.

The foot is a barometer of overall bodily health. Circulatory disorders diabetes, anemia, kidney disorders and other conditions are often first detected in the foot. Arthritis often attacks the foot joints first.

It is important to remember that the feet play a very important function every minute of the day and that a problem with them often creates additional problems with other parts of the body. While on the other hand, a problem such as a lower back pain may very well have its origin with a foot condition.

Your body contributes to, and at the same time, is dependent on, the functioning of your feet.

Citadel honors Beach cadets

Citadel Cadets Robert William Etter and David James Wallis of Virginia Beach have been named to the Commandant's Distinguished Service List at the military college for the second semester of the 1976-77 academic year.

This is the second consecutive semester Cadet Etter's name has appeared on the Commandant's List and the fourth semester for Cadet Wallis' name.

A sophomore at The Citadel, Cadet Etter holds the rank of corporal within the Corps of Cadets and serves as guidon of his company. He is a history major, enrolled in the Air Force ROTC program, and is the recipient of a Princess Anne High School Booster Club Scholarship.

Etter is the son of Mrs. Barbara E. Etter, Cambria Circle.

Cadet Wallis, in his senior year, holds the rank of captain within the Corps and serves as commander of his company. He is a biology major and enrolled in the Army ROTC program.

In his junior year, he was one of 14 students to gain coveted membership in the Junior Eward Drill-a-precision saber unit.

Wallis' parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Wallis, 5016 Bliven Lane.

There's two Greeks cooking up a storm on Virginia Beach Blvd.

Greek salads with feta cheese, baklava, homemade french fries, Greek meatballs, shishebob and more.

"Gus and George's Steak House," located next to Willis Wayside at Thalia, has only been in operation for four months. You might remember the location as "That Steak Place." Gus and George took over the enterprise in an effort to "keep prices low." According to Gus, "We're talking about volume here." The restaurant seats about 180 people.

If you like plenty of good food at reasonable prices, Gus and George's is for you. They heap on the food and what you get is delicious.

The catchword around the restaurant is "fresh," according to Gus. Fresh beef, fresh salads and fresh potatoes. They buy sides of beef which are delivered daily. They cut their own steaks, ground their beef for hamburger and the fat trimmed off the beef is used to fry the french fries.

"We peel and cut our own potatoes for french fries," said Gus. "They come in fresh every day and we use the best - Idaho potatoes."

The french fries are great. Any connoisseur of potatoes will love them. They are offered as an alternative to a baked potato: on the majority of entrees and you always get more than you can possibly eat.

Most people order steaks or spaghetti, according to Gus. All different cuts of steaks are offered, but the majority of people select rib-eye delmonico of differing sizes. Steak dinners run anywhere from $4 to $7 but the majority are right at $5.

The shishebob comes with onions, tomatoes, green peppers and oregano and is another really good selection.

The spaghetti really "moves" at Gus and George's. You can order it with meat sauce, pepperoni, mushrooms or Greek styled meatballs. Although Gus and his chef, Pete Routsis, refused to give away their "secret recipe" for the meatballs, they did say that they used a combination of Greek spices. Definitely try the meatballs!

If you love Greek salads, their concoction is right up your alley. Fresh lettuce, tomatoes, olives, onions, chunks of feta cheese, oil and vinegar, and spices combine to make a really superb Greek salad. It's really big and only goes for $1.55.

As Gus puts it, they have "a variety of everything." Seafood (scallops, oysters, crab cakes, flounder and shrimp) is excellent as well as the lasagna and veal parmesan. They also offer all kinds of sandwiches, the best being the Greek hamburgers.

For dessert you've got to try the delicious Greek pastry, baklava. As all Greeks, Gus and George have their own way of making the pastry and the results are great. They also offer varieties of cheese cake.

Although a family restaurant, Gus and George offer cocktails, beer and wine.

The atmosphere is simple and congenial. Works by Kenneth Harris, a local artist, hang on the wall along with hurricane lamps and other nautical-type pictures. A fireplace is in the center of the room which is decorated in mustard yellows, blacks and oranges.

For a delicious meal in a friendly, family type restaurant, try Gus and George's. We'll guarantee you'll find you leave the restaurant ready to bop, satisfied with the food and the price.

Rudee Inlet parcel sold

SUN Public Affairs Writer

A 1,904-acre parcel on Rudee Inlet was sold by the City of Virginia Beach to F. Wayne McLestey, Jr. for $65,280. City Manager George L. Hanbury told City Council, at an informal session Monday afternoon, that the city could have received more for the land except for the conditions placed on the sale. As it is, the land will be used exactly how the City Council wants it to be used, Hanbury said.

Under the conditions:

The property shall be used for the general public as a public accommodation and is being purchased for the development and use of a sports fishing marina, motel and related facilities for the general public.

Transfer of ownership cannot be made by McLestey to any other party until the facilities are complete. However, he may lease the property or business for the purpose of the proposed development.

The marina facilities will be substantially completed by May 1, 1978 and shall berth and accommodate not less than 25 small vessels or less than 12 large vessels. The motel and related facilities will ultimately contain at least 140 lodging units and the first 30 units should be completed by June 1, 1978, provided there is a demand for motel units at that time.

The parcel, known as the Virginia Capes Marina Property, is north of the Fisherman's Wharf Marina. City Council approved the necessary documents Monday afternoon. Lee Cohen, who had submitted the design bid with McLestey, withdrew from the transaction. Although sale of the property was approved by Council in 1972, problems with the title delayed the sale.

Recovering from open heart surgery, and unable to care for his three-year-old thoroughbred St. Bernard, Mickey Perry was sick at heart about the fate of his dog.

But a quick phone call to the Virginia Beach SUN solved all that. Within hours Perry's free-bred ad was answered by animal lovers who offered a country home and farmstead roomy enough for yet another animal.

Perry supplied A.K.C. registration papers, and in reverse tradition, country folk came to the aid of a St. Bernard.

Bank of VB expands to Kempsville area

President Burt Harrison of the Bank of Virginia Beach, today announced that August 31, the Bank of Virginia Beach had earnings of $136,112.00 before taxes. Harrison also said that the bank's total assets were $17.1 million dollars for the same period, with the success of the new bank being attributable to the fact that the Bank of Virginia Beach is the only locally owned bank that is operated by and for the residents of Virginia Beach, exclusively. There are presently almost 5,000 customers of the bank, since its opening in the Fall of 1976.

Harrison also announced plans for expansion of the Bank of Virginia Beach into the Kempsville area within the next 60 days. The new

No stop light at TCC

By LEE CARILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The Virginia Beach City Administration has decided against installing a traffic light at the intersection of Princess Anne Road and College Crescent.

City Manager George L. Hanbury, at an informal session Monday afternoon, told City Council that the extension of Rosemont Road, which is expected to be completed before the end of the year, should reduce traffic by 75 percent on Princess Anne Road between Lynnhaven Parkway and College Crescent.

Citizens, chiefly from the Tidewater Community College Community, had asked Council for a light at the Princess Anne Road-College Crescent intersection following a traffic fatality there. The matter was referred to the administration for study.

A traffic count made at the intersection, Hanbury said Monday, does not satisfy the minimum requirements for a traffic signal. Neither does the number of accidents, he said, although the accidents all involved bodily injuries.

Hanbury said that the city would "like to give it a try without the light." He said that Oscar Percebo, developer of Green Run, said that he would extend Rosemont Road to the end of the Planned Unit Development where the city would complete the construction. The extension should be completed by the end of the year and no later than Jan. 1, Hanbury said.

In addition to the College Crescent light, the citizens group had requested a light at Lynnhaven Parkway and Princess Anne Road. This light will be installed within approximately two weeks.

The city also will lower the speed limit from Landsdowne Road to Corcoran Road from 55 to 45 miles per hour. The citizens had asked for a reduction to 35 mph. Hanbury said that the traffic survey shows that all of the accidents involve vehicles turning left out of the College toward the Courthouse or from the Kempsville area into the college. Drivers apparently, do not anticipate actions of the cars being the turning vehicles, he said.

Hanbury said that with the opening of Rosemont Road removing heavy traffic from Princess Anne Road as well as College Crescent, there will probably be no need for a traffic light at the College Crescent intersection. He said that a new intersection at Rosemont and Lynnhaven Parkway will be created where a light will be needed.

Bridge-Tunnel to increase tolls

The Traffic Engineer recommended an increase of $1 per vehicle per crossing for cars and trucks crossing the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

The new toll schedule, recommended by Wilbur Smith and Associates, Traffic Consultants to the Commission, becomes effective on January 1, 1978.

Under the new schedule, the second revision in seven years, 2-axle passenger cars, pick-up trucks, panel trucks, small motor homes and motorcycles will pay $7 per crossing. Current toll is $6 for these vehicles. As before, there is no charge for passengers.

The new base rate for 2-axle, 6-tire trucks, commercial and heavy trucks, and vehicles towing trailers will be $1 more per vehicle, classification than the current toll rate which has been in effect since January 1, 1976. Top-axle and three-axle buses will continue to pay flat tolls of $35 and $26 respectively.

Special or unusual vehicles (over 100 feet in length, over 8'-6" in width, over 70,000 lb., or not able to maintain speed at 45 miles per hour) will also continue to pay the same toll in effect since January 1, 1975.

The special escort fee for over-width vehicles and vehicles which cannot maintain the speed of 45 miles per hour is increased to $40 from the present $25 level. Special escort for these vehicles requires special scheduling and the use of two police escort vehicles.

Effective January 1, 1978:

Class 1 - Two-axle, four-tire vehicle including passenger car, pick-up truck, station wagon, limousine and motorcycle. $7.
Class 2 - Class 1 vehicle pulling one-axle trailer. $9.50.
Class 3 - Class 1 vehicle pulling two-axle trailer or other two-axle vehicle. $12.
Class 4 - Class 1 vehicle pulling three-axle trailer. $14.50.
Class 5 - Two-axle, six-tire vehicle (except buses). $10.

Class 10 - Three-axle vehicle (except buses); Class 9 vehicle pulling one-axle trailer. $12.50.

Class 11 - Four-axle vehicle; Class 9 vehicle pulling two-axle trailer or other two-axle vehicle; Class 10 vehicle pulling one-axle trailer. $15.

Class 12 - Five-axle vehicle; Class 9 vehicle pulling three-axle trailer or other three-axle vehicle; Class 10 vehicle pulling two-axle trailer; Class 11 vehicle pulling one-axle trailer. $17.50.

Class 13 - Six-axle vehicle; Class 10 vehicle pulling three-axle trailer; Class 11 vehicle pulling two-axle trailer; Class 12 vehicle pulling one-axle trailer. $20.

Class 14 - Two-axle bus. $25.

Class 15 - Three-axle bus. $26.

Class 16 - Special over-dimension vehicle; i.e., vehicle exceeding 76,000 lbs., 100 feet in length, 8'-6" width, or unable to maintain 45 mph. $50.

Escort fee, when required for special vehicle. $40.

Now's the time to face the issues

When November 8 arrives, the people of Virginia Beach and Virginia must once again decide who their elected officials will be. It's a decision many take lightly and many postpone until it's all over.

Election Day is traditionally coated with apathy but just how much of that apathy is actually ignorance? How many people know candidate names, where they are running for? The first time many people become aware of the issues is when they are face to face with the lever in the voting booth and looking at the ballot.

Many people are confused with ignorance. Although many people aren't aware of issues and candidates, they will care. Now is the time to prepare for November 8. After the election it would be too easy to say, I just didn't care.

In Virginia:

Candidates for the office of Governor are: Alan R. Ogden, Henry Howell, and John N. Dalton.

Lieutenant Governor candidates are: Charles S. "Chuck" Robb, and A. J. "Joe" Canale, Jr.

Candidates running for Attorney General are: Edward E. Lane and J. Marshall Coleman.

In the 4th District, A. W. "Billy" O'Brien, Jr. is running for member of the House of Delegates. In the 40th District, candidates running for member of the House of Delegates are: Bernard G. Barrow, Glenn B. McClanahan, Owen Pickett, Knox R. Burdett, and W. R. "Buster" O'Brien.

Commonwealth's Attorney candidate is Andre Evans. Sheriff candidate is S. J. "Joe" Smith. And Commissioner of Revenue candidate is Ivan D. Mapp.

Candidates for treasurer are: William H. "Bill" Phillips, Joel Smith, and John T. Atkinson.

Questions to be decided are as follows:

Question: Shall Chapter 650, Acts of the General Assembly of 1977, authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds of the Commonwealth of Virginia in the maximum amount of $36,475,000 pursuant to Article X, Section 9 (b) of the Constitution of Virginia for EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS, take effect?

Question: Shall Chapter 651, Acts of the General Assembly of 1977, authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds of the Commonwealth of Virginia in the maximum amount of $2,525,000 pursuant to Article X, Section 9 (b) of the Constitution of Virginia for CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES, take effect?

Question: Shall Chapter 652, Acts of the General Assembly of 1977, authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds of the Commonwealth of Virginia in the maximum amount of $4,000,000 pursuant to Article X, Section 9 (b) of the Constitution of Virginia for MENTAL HEALTH FACILITIES, take effect?

Question: Shall Chapter 653, Acts of the General Assembly of 1977, authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds of the Commonwealth of Virginia in the maximum amount of $6,000,000 pursuant to Article X, Section 9 (b) of the Constitution of Virginia for PARK AND RECREATIONAL FACILITIES, take effect?

Question: Shall Chapter 654, Acts of the General Assembly of 1977, authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds of the Commonwealth of Virginia in the maximum amount of $6,000,000 pursuant to Article X, Section 9 (b) of the Constitution of Virginia for PORT FACILITIES, take effect?

Call

Cancer Line

The Cancer Answer Service, a toll-free statewide telephonic information system sponsored by the American Cancer Society (ACS) Virginia Division, is now in operation.

By calling 1-800-552-7996, information about cancer, treatment services and facilities, patient services, and information about the American Cancer Society and its programs is readily available to all Virginia residents. The toll-free service may be used by Virginia residents in every part of the state, except the Richmond area.

Specially trained volunteers will be working each weekday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to receive requests via the Cancer Answer Service. A special feature of the service will be a direct line-in with the Health Line at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond where various sites and types of cancer is available.

PA Jr High "gongs"

The Princess Anne Junior High School PTA recently held their first annual Gong Show which played to a full house.

It was quite an evening for all of the young junior high school students that participated. A lot of star-studded talent was found. First place was Pamela Greene, a ninth grader who sang "Touch Me In The Morning" - her voice will be the one to look for in the future of good local talent. She was accompanied on the piano by Tawnee Keenan. Second place went to a dance group, Reese Originals, featuring Regina Moore, Lisa Epps, Sheila Woodhouse, Nita Epps, Candrell Rogers and Rita Griffin. They performed to Boogie Nights in white gowns designed by Reese Originals.

Third place went to Preston Vann for his performance at the piano.

THE OTHER performers were: Oakie Hensley on guitar, Nannette Quinonez and Christine Pionese in dance.

David Bloodworth doing imitations, Dana Anderson and Kathy Heidelbaugh in dance; Paula Shipp, Gay Cook; Tracy Corsett and Wendy Chapman in dance, Ricky Kwiatkowski, a comedian, Mrs. Scott's French class in song to Frere Jacques, Debbie Harrill and Susan Locke doing a skit from the 50's, Ann Weaver and Angela Moore dancing to "Shake Your Booty", Yolanda Whitfield and Peaches Carter in dance and Dennis Noble with a disappearing magic act to the music of Star Wars.

Home craft show

The Virginia Beach Junior Women's Club's Ninth Annual Home Craft Show and Sale will be held on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 21, 22 from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 23 from 12 noon till 6 p.m.

30 craftsmen from the Tidewater area will be featured and lunch and dinner may be purchased from the Junior's Country Kitchen. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for Senior Citizens. All proceeds are donated to Charitable Organizations.

TCC counseling additions

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College has added two new counselors to the Counseling Center staff.

Mr. Robert Olson, who received his Bachelor of Science from the University of Nebraska and his Master of Science from ODU, comes to TCC from a position of crisis counseling at the Virginia Beach Outreach Center. Mr. Olson and his wife and three children live in Virginia Beach.

Mr. Edward Rigby earned his Bachelor of Science from Alabama A & M University and his Master of Arts from Case Western Reserve University. Mr. Rigby comes to TCC from three years' experience in counseling at Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Rigby and wife and two children currently live in Hampton.

Local bands take honors

The bands of two Tidewater area high schools, Kempsville High School and Indian River High School, won trophies in the fifth annual marching band competition at the Virginia State Fair on Governor's Day.

The Kempsville High School Band won the first place trophy in division one for music, marching and maneuvering, and general effect.

The 137-member band, directed by Billy T. Cooper, competed with 20 other bands in division one. Competing bands from throughout Virginia and North Carolina were grouped into two divisions based on the total enrollment of the school they represented.

The Kempsville Band also won the first place trophy in the drum line competition. The drum line competition included 35 high school bands from both divisions.

Directed by James D. Page the 78-member Indian River High School Band won the first place trophy in the drum major competition.

Sponsored each year by the Virginia State Fair Committee and Virginia Commonwealth University, the marching band competition was organized by the VCU Band Director John D. Savage.

Kellam week-end

The Kellam High School Knights started their homecoming activities October 7, in which the homecoming theme was "Storybook Land." The activities consisted of a pre-game parade and during halftime, presentation of the court, crowning of the queen, and the winners of the floats.

The Sophomore class attendants were Debbie Carroll and Mingyong Young. Junior class attendants were Eyle Herrell, Wendy Connally and Karas Lucas. The 1977-78 queen is Terri Harold. Pam Pellans, the 1976-77 queen, crowned Miss Harold and presented her with the cape and a bouquet of roses. Winners of the floats were: Third place: FHA (Future Homemakers of America), Second Place: Junior Class, First Place: Senior Class.

Another exciting moment of the night was the Knight victory over John Marshall of Richmond. The final score was 31-13. The conclusion of the weekend had Grand Slam providing entertainment at the dance, Saturday.

Beware

In recent weeks, hurricanes ANITA and BABE terrorized the Gulf Coast with high winds and destruction. Their presence has only been felt weakly on the eastern coastal states, but still proved to be a grim reminder that the hurricane season is upon us. For boaters, this means taking some added precautions.

On gusty days or in case of severe storms, the National Weather Service posts four classes of warnings for boaters.

"Small craft advisories" are issued when the forecast is for winds up to 33 knots and the sea condition could become a danger to small craft. The signal for this is a square red flag with a black square in the center. At night, the signal is two red lights.

The "hurricane warning" indicates winds of more than 64 knots. It also forecasts possible flooding of low land areas, high tides and heavy rains. The hurricane signal consists of two square red flags with black squares in the center. The night signal is a string of three lights showing red-white-red.

Boatmen should check the weather forecast before setting out especially during this fall hurricane season.

weather warning during the day is a triangular red pennant displayed on flagposts at most local marinas. At night, a red light over a white light is used to caution boaters.

"Gale warnings" indicate winds of 34 to 47 knots which are always accompanied by hazardous conditions. The day signal for a gale warning is two red pennants and a white light over a red light at night. When this condition exists, another mooring line is advisable.

"Storm warnings" are forecast when winds from 48 to 63 knots exist. This warning usually coincides with heavy rain forecasts, possible flooding and high

Band Competition

By BUD LOWE
SUN Band Reporter

After a week of cold and rainy weather the sky opened up and gave way to a perfect day for a band competition. And the competition was the Fifth Annual Tidewater Festival of Marching Bands held at Indian River High School in Chesapeake. It was sunny and warm and could not have been a better day for such an event.

There were a total of 22 bands from two states present. This was the largest and the best festival ever held at Indian River. Jim Page, Band Director for Indian River, the Marching Braves Band, and the Band Boosters should be complimented for such an outstanding job.

This was definitely the best showing of bands so far this year. Every band that performed did a superb job on the field of competition. The day of events started at 1 p.m. and all bands in both Class A and Class AA took a turn on the field to show what they could do. Then from this field of competition three bands from Class A and five bands from Class AA were chosen to return at 7 p.m. to compete in the finals. At 7 p.m. those selected as the top finalists in each group came back and competed again to see who was the best of the best. Believe me, the judges had their work cut out for them this night. All returning bands were good and anyone of the returning bands could have walked off with the big award of the day.

The bands that competed in Class A were: Williamson High School, Williamston, N.C.; John Yeates High School, Suffolk, Va.; Currituck High School, Barco, N.C.; Hanscomb High School, Suffolk, Va.; Plymouth High School, Plymouth, N.C.; Parry McCluer High School, Buena Vista, Va.; and Clover Hill High School, Midlothian, Va.

The bands that competed in Class AA were: Colonial Heights High School, Colonial Heights, Va.; Deep Creek High School, Chesapeake, Va.; Western Branch High School, Chesapeake, Va.; George Washington High School, Danville, Va.; Kempsville High School, Virginia Beach, Va.; Hermitage High School, Richmond, Va.; E. C. Glass High School, Lynchburg, Va.; Rose High School, Greenville, N.C.; Kalam High School, Virginia Beach, Va.; and Bridge High School, Chesapeake, Va.; Princess Anne High School, Virginia Beach, Va.; Oscar Smith High School, Chesapeake, Va.; First Colonial High School, Virginia Beach, Va.; Green Central High School, Snow Hill, N.C.; and Bayside High School, Virginia Beach, Va.

The special awards went to the following schools: First Place Drum Line--E. C. Glass High School; Second Place Drum Line--Kempsville High School; First Place Drum Major--E. C. Glass High School; Second Place Drum Major--Princess Anne High School; First Place Rifle Line--Green Central High School; Second Place Rifle Line--Princess Anne High School; First Place Majorettes--Williamston High School; Second Place Majorettes--Williamston High School; First Place Color Guard--E. C. Glass High School; Second Place Color Guard--Princess Anne High School.

The finalists for the day in Class A were: Parry McCluer High School took first place, Plymouth High School came in second with Currituck High School in third place. For the top five in the big bands or Class AA it was as follows: Fifth place--George Washington High School, fourth place--E. C. Glass High School, third place--Green Central High School, second place--Kempsville High School, First place and Grand Champions of the day Princess Anne High School.

What a day for a band festival. Ron Collins and his Fabulous Marching Cavaliers took this opportunity to tear the field up and show what competitive marching is all about. Yes, the young Cavaliers from Princess Anne High School showed their championship form once more. They put on a show that was as good as any I have seen them put on to date. They took home three second place trophies, one first place trophy, a check for $300, and the Grand Champion Trophy Award; not bad for one day's work in anybody's book. Congratulations are in order for the group from Princess Anne High School, and we hope to see many more days like this one from them this year.

Energy clinics

In cooperation with the Virginia Energy Office, Tidewater Community College will be presenting a series of Home Energy Cost-Cutting Clinics to the citizens of the Tidewater area during October. These clinics are open to the public and are free in all respects. In addition to the presentation, expert energy instructors will be on hand to answer any questions on insulation, caulking, storm windows, tax incentives, how to hire a contractor and any other questions concerning conservation of home energy.

At the clinics free publications on all areas of home energy conservation will be given to each participant. These cost-cutting clinics are part of a state-wide effort to increase public awareness of the national energy crisis and the methods available to help individuals cut costs in their own homes.

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College will present their Home Energy Cost-Cutting Clinics on October 11, 18, and 25 from 7 to 9:30 a.m. and on October 15 and 29 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. For further information contact the Office of Continuing Education.

"Come for the fun of it"

By JOAN COATES
Staff Writer

In "My Fair Lady," when Eliza Doolittle asks Professor Henry Higgins why she should come back to him, he answers, "Come back for the fun of it."

The Virginia Beach Little Theatre's production of "My Fair Lady" is just that -- fun.

A long time favorite, "My Fair Lady" and its story of the transformation of a lowly flower girl to a "lady fit for a Tootsie" has played to audiences after audiences with astounding success. Known to be familiar to most, from "Ode to the Sea" to "You Live, You Love, Me to the Church on Time."

Laughs come easy. The material is solid and the personalities of the characters are strong.

Alfred P. Doolittle, played by Jon Irby is a stand-out. He's got the timing and sense of humor which combines to create some of the high points in the production. His roust of "Get Me to the Church on Time" is sensational. Obviously the audience favorite, Irby is the strong-hold of the production.

Leads Anna Beth White, as Eliza Doolittle, and Ken Fraser, as Professor Henry Higgins, manage to carry off their characters well. White does seem a bit overly dense and Fraser pretentious, but they remain convincing as the main characters.

Although a play of language and words, "My Fair Lady," as presented by the Little Theatre, works best in the unspoken. White's use of her eyes saves her interpretation of Eliza. Continuously rolling her eyes from side to side along with stubborn pouts, Eliza learns to pronounce the letter "h" by practicing in front of a candle. When the Professor looks away, she relights the flame as she has spit out.

The best performance of the production goes to the stage crew. Lugging set after set, back and forth, they appeared on stage continuously. One scene only lasted a few minutes, yet the elaborate setting was changed. The overly long production could have flowed more smoothly had there been a less complicated set.

But as Henry Higgins put it, we're just here for "the fun of it." It's light, it's fun, it's entertainment.

The humor is tongue in cheek, satirizing everything from the nobility to the relationship between men and women. "Why can't a woman be more like a man?" asks Henry. Or, "Have you ever met a man with a good character when a woman is concerned?"

The scene at Ascot is a statement in itself about nobility. Clad in flowery costumes, the entire cast works well together to take a jab at aristocratic society and language.

The Little Theatre is having no trouble filling its seats. Saturday night the auditorium was filled to capacity with families of all ages.

Maybe there is too much nudity and violence for some in the theatre today. You're always hearing for a return to entertainment. "My Fair Lady" is pure entertainment, a powerful and proven winner. Even with all their shortcoming of production, the Virginia Beach Little Theatre has a success on their hands.

Ken Fraser, as Professor Henry Higgins and Anna Beth White, as Eliza Doolittle.

Yahoo... The Flatland Cloggers

By JOAN COATES
Staff Writer

Look out, work, here comes the Flatland Cloggers! Yahoos, flatfooting and smiling all the way, this star-glit group of twelve teenage dancers from Chesapeake, Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Hampton plan to take the Clogging World Championship, Friday, October 30, at Fontana Village, North Carolina.

The group's leader and founder, Bob Johnson, is the brains behind the feet. He is the one who drills, drills, drills.

"I don't know what your problem is," Johnson yelled to his dancers during a recent practice. "I don't want to see you all walking. You're a precision clogging team."

And sure enough, that's what they are - and one of the best around. Already they are the Mid-Atlantic Champs and The South Carolina Spring Mountain Champs. And they hold many more second place championships as well.

The most amazing part of the Cloggers' success is that they've only been dancing as a group since January. Johnson had been teaching clogging through the Chesapeake Parks and Recreation Department and had several couples of adult cloggers and a few doing Western Square.

"They just didn't fit in," he said. "So I resigned and got the teens together."

"The original cloggers recommended friends," he recalled, "and some came as far as Hampton."

Recently Johnson had two too many girls so he formed a junior team. The senior team is roughly ages 14-17, or senior high school age and the juniors consist of junior high age.

Johnson said he likes to get in three nights a week of practice, three hours a night. But lately, because of building restrictions, the Cloggers have been dancing three hours Thursday nights and four hours on Sunday nights. And that doesn't count all the time they put into local performances and competitions.

The Flatland Cloggers dance "authentic Appalachian clogging," according to Johnson. "We use all the old, old figures we can remember," he said. "We use the Georgia Runging, Birdie in the Cage, Spill the Apple, Die for the Oyster, Lady Around the Gem...It's authentic Appalachian folkwork - it's a folk tradition."

"We also use the old mountain tunes to dance to," he added. "Clady, Ole Joe Clark, Golden Slippers. We work with a simple beat. The down beat is for the heel or the louder sound. What we call the ornamental sound is for the toe."

The majority of Johnson's clogging expertise came from seven time World Champion, Bill Nichols. He also studied clogging in several North Carolina schools - Appalachian State, Western Carolina and Fontana Village. "There's always more to learn," he emphasized.

Any amateur group, like the Flatland Cloggers, have money worries. The Cloggers solve their financial problems by selling bumper stickers and candy, or collecting newspapers. They own their own bus, a "retired Greyhound," according to Johnson.

"We also hold open clogging and charge admission," Johnson added. "We invite everyone we know who are cloggers. Some will even come down from Richmond. We call it the Flatland Cloggers' Open House."

On October 30, the Cloggers will begin to train cloggers. The first class will be in beginning clogging and will be held from 2-4 in the afternoon. "Every member will teach his own specialty," said Johnson. The charge for ten lessons is $15.

Johnson, the Flatland Cloggers are participating in the Clogging World Championship. "To be the state champion, you have to dance against all men," Johnson said. "At World Gap, we were told we had a group of adults who clogged at the Grand Old Opry," he added. If Johnson and the Flatland Cloggers were lucky, the Grand Old Opry would be the last of its kind for them.

The Flatland Cloggers practice to perfection.

"Push, don't kick." The juniors give it their all.

"You're a precision clogging group," leader Bob Johnson reminds his dancers.

Dedication day

The Chapel of the 548 Bacher Road, Virginia Beach is happy to announce our Dedication Day, October 22nd. Our new building and its furnishings will be consecrated, and we would like to invite you to join us for this occasion.

The day will be a full one starting with the dedication and consecration service at 11 a.m. Then will follow a picnic luncheon on the grounds and the Bazaar of our Episcopal Church Women. Starting at 1:30 p.m. will be an adult volleyball tournament for the Virginia Beach parishes and children's games and activities. At 5 p.m. we will have a Synod Sing, and an evening prayer will end our day of celebration and fellowship. Plan to come and spend the day (or at least part of it) with us. Bring your lunch and dessert - beverages will be furnished.

Kellam

Opponents: Cox

Place: Cox

Offense: John Cooke, the head football coach at Kellam says, "Our offense came thru against Princess Anne when it had to, we didn't look real smooth but we still won 21-19. I figured to win the game we had to score first and we did. Ronnie Ferebee intercepted a pass and ran 75 yards for a touchdown. Same Smith kicked a field goal in the second quarter and another in the third quarter. Running back Jeff Hayes made an 80 yard TD run in the fourth. Jimmie Jackson caught a pass from Quarterback Joel Efford for forty yards. They came thru when they had to."

Defense: According to Coach Cooke, "Our defense did a tremendous job. Ronnie Ferebee was outstanding on the defensive squad. Ronnie Palmer, Karl Foreman and Lamar Cuffee all had nice tackles. Tim Patton and Roger Lancaster also did good jobs. Wally Brown blocked two passes. Maurice Joseph also had a good game."

Keys to Victory: Coach Cooke says, "Cox is good, we have to get a good pass rush going and we have to stop their running game. If we beat them we've got the Beach title saved up. We beat Princess Anne to clinch at least a tie. If we beat Cox it's all over, we'll have the title."

Cox

Place: Cox, Homecoming

Offense: Coach Al Habit says, "We did real well against Kemperville, we beat them 20 to 6. Jim Hayden our quarterback had about 300 yards passing, three of those passes were for touchdowns. Willie Sead had 28 carries for 123 yards. Ray McCoy and Reggie Garrett also had excellent games. Willie Sead also caught a screen pass and made a 38 yard touchdown play."

Defense: Coach Habit goes on to say, "Hugh Hendricks, Todd Jones, Mark Woodhouse, Jeff Snyder and Jeff Sanders all had a good night against Kemperville. We played real well, I think we had them held well until the last quarter when we put in the second team."

Keys to Victory: According to Coach Habit, "There is no way we can match Kellam man on man, we have a small team and they are very physical. They've beaten everyone in the Beach. To win we have to outmaneuver them and outpace them."

First Colonial

Opponents: Mychville

Place: Todd Stadium

Offense: First Colonial Coach Frank Webster speaking of last week's game against Booker T. Washington says, "We had a pretty good offensive game, we beat them 34-6. Halfback Fernando Barber gained 197 yards in ten carries and made three touchdowns. Fullback James Lavonon gained 100 yards in nine carries. Rusty Rust gained 112 yards on passes and 46 yards rushing, he also made a touchdown."

Defense: Coach Webster says, "We held them to six points, and they only scored against the second team late in the last quarter. Don Phillips, our middle guard made eleven individual tackles and three assists and he didn't even play the whole game. Defensive end Mark Dennis also had a good game, he recovered a crucial fumble. Defensive back Tom Gilliland had a good night on punt return and pass defense."

Keys to Victory: According to Coach Webster, "Mychville has a good team, they beat last year's state champions, Rehoboth. They have also beaten others badly, they have scored well on just about everyone they've played. To win we just have to out score them...the game will be decided by who moves the ball the best."

Horsing around for fun & profit

By MARK GROVES

Only four points separated the winner from the losers in the overall competition in the riding shows held all through the summer at Princess Anne Park. The lady that ended up with those four extra points, and the trophy, was Mrs. Alma Mills of Chesapeake. Alma says she was "Really getting nervous there towards the end." She was pleased to win anyway it went. By four points or forty it's still winning. Alma and her horse Apache have won that competition for two years running now. Donna Holmacker and Julie McCleamy came in second and third.

Alma says she has loved horses ever since she can remember and has owned one since she was about eight years old. Apache, who is 17, is about old enough to have been that first horse and is one of the first that she has owned. Alma entered her first contest when she was about ten and has been competing in one way or the other ever since, she also works in the highly competitive field of modeling.

Alma says most of the events were short distance maneuverability and speed events such as barrel races. The five shows were held throughout the summer and sponsored by the Atlantic Saddle Club.

Another of Alma's interests is training horses, she owns one horse named Sagittarius, because both she and her husband are Sagittarians, he can answer the phone, push a baby carriage, count, answer yes and no questions, do some fancy high stepping and many other things. All things that Alma has taught him. Sagittarius is a trick show horse that Alma takes around to various functions, such as the Neptune Festival Youth events day, and birthday parties for children where they actually put on a whole prepared show, they also give the kids rides. Alma hopes to someday be able to quit her full time job at the Ford Plant and just do shows and teach with her horses.

You might get a chance to see Sagittarius sometime soon on the tube, C & P Telephone Company is interested in having him answer the phone on one of their commercials.

Alma is interested in doing more shows and if you or your group have an event or a birthday party coming up you might give her a call at 482-4221, who knows, maybe Sagittarius will answer.

Give us a call, Sagittarius may answer. You may get to see him do this trick on a TV commercial sometime soon.

It's true love, trick horse Sagittarius gives trainer Alma Mills a sort of sloppy kiss.

WRITING ABOUT SPORTS BY ANDY ROSS, WHOR SPORTSTALK

This is Andy Ross writing about sports.

I'm still trying to justify my "fearless" predictions for the current NFL season. Since I made those predictions several weeks ago the season has started and surprises has been piled upon surprises.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE - CENTRAL

Unlike last season the Tampa Bay Buccaneers will win at least one game - but as yet I cannot guess the name of the victim(s). With Anthony Davis and Ricky Bell Tampa Bay will develop an awesome running attack in several years, once an offensive line can be found. There are good young receivers (the coaches said included) but no quarterback to count on; the Buccaneers lost two potential starters during pre-season. The defense has some potential and will develop as the season goes on - but it has a long way to go. Don't expect much here for several years because this team is very young and inexperienced. 1-13.

The Green Bay Packers can only improve, but the Pack is not back yet. There are so many major problems that a few talented veterans and a good rookie draft will simply not supply the answer. Dickey can be good (given adequate protection), Odum and Payne can catch, and Barrell will develop into a fine punter. Brockington is now gone and they have no comparable replacement. The defense is doing better, but still develops the unit will be porous and lose some other-wise close games. The schedule is fair but Green Bay will not win many. 4-8.

The Detroit Lions are a team always promising but never really producing. The offense seems quite capable of scoring points. Landry is not a great quarterback but can be effective when he gets protection (something he did not get last season). At best the running attack has potential - but without blocking the potential may never be realized. Hill, Jarvis, Walton, and Sanders are a fine receiving corps, and Detroit will score most of its points in the air.

The defense, on the other hand, can be tough - but it is porous most of the time and will allow opponents to score often. There is also a serious kicking problem so close games will generally not be won. At best a 7-7 season.

In a revision of my earlier prediction I'm now picking the Chicago Bears to finish second in the Central Division. My reason should be obvious: the Bears, after several games, have done almost nothing to correct their primary problem - a consistent passing attack.

The receiving corps is a good one with Butler, Baschangel, Scott, and Lafta - but neither Phares nor Aveline now seems capable of getting the ball to them often enough.

The burden of the attack falls on an excellent group of running backs - the magnificent Dayton along with Harper, Musso, and Earl. The defense led by Chambers should be good (always tough), but so far it has allowed more points than a contender should.

If the passing attack happens Chicago could still challenge Minnesota for the title - and, if not, a 9-5 season is still a possibility.

The Minnesota Vikings are a large IF! If Tartington produces - if the spectacular Foreman isn't overworked - if the great receivers (White and Kassarud) stay healthy - if age doesn't overtake the defense - if the younger players work into the line-up quickly enough - if Bud Grant comes up with some imaginative moments. So far the Minnesota problem seems to be scoring points. If the offensive attack gets and the defense holds together, the Vikings may beat out Chicago with a 10-4 record.

Next week I'll confront the National Conference East and the task of picking the runner-up to the Dallas Cowboys. So please call me - whether you agree with my opinion or not - on WHOR's Sportstalk show, Monday through Friday, 6:30 - 7 p.m., and let's hear your opinion...

Painting the town

WITH SYLVIA SHAPIRO

BJ LIEDEMAN, who's a nice Jewish kid who was playing at a spot called "COUNTRY COMFORT." That's what I might've called, but I wrote it like he was playing "COUNTRY II," which BJ recently joined, plays some of the "country music," but "Country Comfort" was a crowd puller. It wasn't just a CROWD, it was a CROWD. As I entered, BJ's mother was just leaving, and to be sure, his "her son, the pianist" remained behind, but he was not, no, not chicken soup (somebody told me Jewish pianists) but a bag of Hershey's Kisses. Appropriate, for he was born on Valentine's Day. At least ago.

So what was a New Yorker-jazz fan my age doing there? In addition to having heard good things about "SMEE II" I wanted to see and hear my old Driver Ed pupil from P.A. five years ago. This young man had impressed me greatly back then with his adult conversation, posturing wit, composing his playing, and the obvious ambition. He wanted me to build an impressive list of broadcasting credits: announcer for several stations including WFOS; cameraman at WTAR; performer on Rocky Liza's show and Connie's Magic Cottage; producer of award-winning films, as well as commercials that have been seen widely; manager of a station in North Carolina; composer of soundtracks; and you might recall his 24 hour piano marathon at Pembroke Hall. During this time he was in his college but could not pass up the chance to join his favorite group, which he feels is on the verge of stardom.

When I first spotted him on his television, I was amazed at his million dollar face: 60% Woody Allen; 30% Grosecroft; 10% Sammy Davis. With his combination of talents he could become the Victor Borge of Rock Piano.

It was no surprise when BJ's uncle, Nat Liederman (the pianist) told me months ago that BJ is a second cousin of Charlie "The Topper" Schaefer...for both possess little fingers and scintillating wit. What a comedy team they'd make: BJ is wild-haired, mustachioed, and 6 foot 7, weighing in at 180. Top is 30 years older, nearly a foot shorter, bearded, and derived his nickname from being Kojak'd at BJ's age; he is one of the few males I've heard other heterosexual males describe as "cute," being a cross of several of the seven dwarfs. Oddly, BJ hasn't even heard Top play, for Top spent much of his career in Washington. I assured BJ that Top is one of the finest pianists in the world. If that isn't enough talent for one family, you'll often see the name Charles Schaefer as the director-producer of movies; the film musical is called "Charlie" is the family, to distinguish him from Top, his first cousin I believe. Bassist George Crowling is the leader of "SMEE II."

A regular on the local television scene, George was from Norway to OOD. He was a model in Seattle, and worked at North's General. Crowling was with the WFLA Band previously.

Drummer Edna Morris is a Chickadee who went from Lake Taylor to Tuxedo, and is an excellent musician. Bassist Don Schaefer is a Chickadee, plays electric guitar and has a great sense of humor. A 5'10" giant, he is a tennis fiend.

Jim Duran, a Scorpio, is a Nervous New York headliner head-guitar who, for me, gave the audience and me the highlights of his own work was his driving vocal as "Tina" in "The Streets." He and Don frequently annoy themselves, sharing many a smile.

The guys are very compatible, and owe much to Marc Mirman, who has served a variety of functions along the way.

They drew record crowds at all the Jolly Oan (well, that's the plural isn't it?) and used 2000 copies of their record there. They are now touring the nation.

Four years ago, Crowling and Zieglerstein formed a duo, named the "T.I." had the "SMEE" comes from "Z and Me" altered to "SMEE" after the Peter Pan character. They intend to make it big. How can they miss with all that talent plus John Denver on one end and Woody Allen on the other?

B.J. Liederman

Memory will remain

The memory of Mary Ann Gowin will be honored at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College through a student loan fund being established by her fellow workers and faculty members in her name. To date the fund has received $324 in contributions.

Ms. Gowin was killed on September 26, in a tragic automobile accident at the entrance to the college on Princess Anne Road. Mary Ann had worked closely with students for two years in the Placement and Cooperative Education Office. She assisted many students in finding jobs and positions in the cooperative education field.

The loan fund will be received continually and through the generosity and concern of the TCC employees, the memory of Mary Ann Gowin will remain at TCC indefinitely.

A Top 10 Superstar

By JOAN COATES
SUN Staff Writer

It almost slipped right past me. As I was sorting through the multitude of mail that pours daily into the Sun office, I did a doubletake. Did I read that right? I tried again.

Enclosed is revised photograph of Top Ten Fugitive Charles Lee Herron.

Stupified, a million questions ran through my head at once. What did he do? When was he last seen? Is he expected to be in this area? Is he dangerous?

They say curiosity kills the cat, but this cat would rather have her curiosity killed than to run into Mr. Herron one Virginia Beach night, not knowing how to get on that prestigious list.

As a child reared on the "F.B.I." and Ellsberg-Zinbald, Jr., I decided to call my local F.B.I. office. After speaking to five different people, I finally talked to Agent Boyle.

Right away Agent Boyle put my mind at ease. He surmised the reason the SUN had received a "revised photograph" was because it had been ten years since Herron allegedly committed the crime. Ten years? Somehow, I thought, it sure took the F.B.I. a long time to get that photograph.

According to Boyle, Herron was one of five men involved in the slaying of two police officers in January of 1969 in Nashville, Tenn. There was a federal warrant issued in Nashville charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

A fellow you'd be glad to get to know this Herron, Herron? The problem is, he's got dozens of names. If you ever meet a black male with tinted glasses, about 40 years old, height somewhere between five foot seven inches to eight inches, who answers to such names as Blood, George, Larry or Sherry, be leery. You could be dealing with a Top Ten Fugitive.

Kathy Kenney has opened a black and white photographic show at Mutual Federal Savings and Loan's Hilltop North Office in Virginia Beach. The show, titled "The Ladies and Gents," will run throughout the month of October.

Miss Kenney, a native of Chesapeake, Va., is a graduate of Daytona Community College, Daytona, Florida where she studied photography. She has exhibited her work in Daytona, Florida and the Ormond Beach Memorial Gallery in Ormond, Florida.

Hours for the show at Mutual Federal's Hilltop North Office, Laslin Road are from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday.

Shakespeare comes to the Beach

The department of Parks and Recreation of the City of Virginia Beach's performing arts unit announces the opening of William Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" by the "Shakespeare by the Sea Company" at 8 p.m. on October 21. This is the first offering of this new city sponsored company. It is hoped that this group will in time develop into a Shakespeare Festival. Performances are scheduled to run from October 21 through October 30 with family matinees on Sunday, October 23 and the 26. Curtain time for the evening performances is at 8 p.m. Sunday matinees are at 3 p.m. All performances are free; however reservations are required and will be held for ticket pick-up until 7:45 on the evening of the reserved performance and 2:45 for the reserved matinee.

Reservations may be made by telephoning the Virginia Beach Recreation Center: 300 Monmouth Lane, Virginia Beach, 699-1281. The role of Petruchio is being played by Will Simonson, a newcomer to the area from Los Angeles. Kathryn Strouse, who is well-known to the Tidewater Region, is portraying Katharina. Included in the cast is Miss Virginia Beach, Carol Scotese. Gary Hale is the production designer, with costumes by Mary Ellen Brown. The technical director for the show is Tom Magee. Taming of the Shrew is under the direction of Henry Deshaids, who directed the highly successful "readers Theatre" production of Jonathan Livingston Seagull, which was the opening show for the recreation center Theatre.

Beach youth skateboard champ

Thomas Lee Ford, a Virginia Beach youth, won the junior boys slalom competition Saturday, October 1 at the second annual SCA-Eastern Skateboard Association championship held in Abery Park, New Jersey.

Tom was given his trophy for posting the best time in the 9-to-11 year-old category by Jersey Joe Walcott, the acting New Jersey State Commissioner of Athletics, in a ceremony at the Casino Arena Skateboard Park.

Five hundred skateboarders from 23 states participated in the amateur competition on October 1 and October 2 in the largest skateboard tournament on the East Coast this year. Professional skateboarders from 15 states competed for $10,000 in prize money last Saturday, October 8.

A Sobering Thought.

Day in and day out you find you need that extra drink. To help you through that meeting. To help you face the family. And everyday that extra drink becomes another extra drink. And it hurts. Write or call in confidence for facts on the program for the treatment of alcoholism. In a comfortable, caring atmosphere. Specialists can help you face the day without that extra drink. Isn't that a sobering thought?

Clang, Clang, Clang Where's the fire?

By JOAN COATES
Staff Writer

It's like walking into the past - Like an old movie happening all around you, the action suspended in time. Always on the look-out for a new place to eat, I walked in the Second Alarm, located on Shore Drive, expecting the same old fare in dining.

I was wrong.

It's a place for a fireman, or a lover of fire lore. Or for the seeker of the novel and unusual.

A soft, warm light hangs over the restaurant. Antique brass fire extinguishers, old nozzles, pull boxes and alarms are scattered throughout the black leather and wood dining area. High back wooden booths give the place the air of privacy and seclusion. You can almost hear the far off clanging of the fire engine, as you view the assorted photographs hanging on the walls.

It got started as a "fire museum," according to John George, owner, out of chance. "My partner is a fireman," he said, "and my brother's a fireman. We also use the fire department next door as a direction point. Thus the Second Alarm." Interest in fire lore and the objects that go with it just seemed to happen after that, said George.

George likes to think of the Second Alarm as "a place where you'd be comfortable having drinks or having dinner or having both." The atmosphere of the Second Alarm is as relaxing as comfortable as one sinks into the various memorabilia.

Located right off the ocean, the Second Alarm not only offers the unique in atmosphere but offers the unique in food as well. The seafood is the main drawing card along with the beef.

They offer such fare as Chesapeake Bay Oysters, Alaska crabmeat in butter, She Crab Soup, steaks and sandwiches. "We try a lot of different things," said George.

George said they buy as much as they can locally from independent fishermen and then run what they buy as special. "We only buy the best," he said.

Jackson, who likes to "try new things" prepares a special herb dressing for his salads as well as creating different homemade soups daily.

The Second Alarm wants to keep prices down and yet offer quality food, according to George. They are always running specials. During Sunday football games they reduce the price of cocktails and they run specials on whatever they buy in season. "Our Surf and Turf is doing very well as a special," said George. "It's normally $10.95, but we've been running it at $7.95, including wine with the meal. It's done sensationally."

Everything about the Second Alarm is sensational. The food, the price, the feeling. If you want something different, something unusual, try the Second Alarm. It's a visit to the past.
